You're Good When The 'Kiss-O-Meter' Hits 120!

CHICAGO—How hot is a kiss?

An attempt at scientific measurement of osculatory sensations—we're still talking about the same thing—has been made in a series of experiments at Armour Institute of Technology with a "kiss-o-meter."

The degree of interest, surface covered and moisture of lips determines the resistance set up in the "kiss-o-meter" electrical system. A voltmeter records the resistance in terms of "kissites."

Two kissers getting hot can swing the voltmeter needle to 120 and ring a gong. When they do, and students are present, there are loud cheers.

An elderly couple kissed with the machine in action, but didn't budge the needle. A married couple, bored, hit 35. A kiss on the hand registered 37 kissites.

Subjects are required to hold an electrode before kissing. The electrode is attached to the voltmeter. The machine was invented by two students, Emil Daniel and Lawrence Strocchia.

THAT'S NOTHING
It may be gallant but not hot, and Lawrence Strocchia, co-inventor of the "kiss-o-meter," doesn't think a hand kiss—registering 40 "kissites"—is a fair test of his device.

THAT'S BETTER
A student at Armour Institute of Technology "gets down to business" with a blonde and the "kiss-o-meter" hits 90.

THAT RINGS THE BELL!
The little blonde is still willing—and she "goes to town" with another student as the needle hits 120, a bell rings and onlookers cheer. When the gong rings, you're tops.

NATION STANDING FIRM ON POLICY TOWARD GERMANY

Holds Independence Spared Over Week-End by Display of Arms; Elections Show Voting Strength of Factions Unchanged.

BULLETIN

PRAHA—(AP)—Konrad Henlein, leader of Czechoslovakia's autonomy-seeking Germanic minority, and Premier Milan Hodza met tonight in a preliminary effort to settle their dispute, which had brought Europe dangerously near the brink of war.

(By International News Service)

PRAGUE—Czechoslovakia today refused to withdraw any troops from the Sudeten German areas, and sources closest to President Eduard Benes—regarded as personal victor in yesterday's local elections—said the present government policy towards the Germans would be continued.

With Czechoslovakia breathing much easier, highest official quarters said on behalf of the president:

"The independence of the republic has been saved, at least for the time being—thanks to the brilliant impression Czech military measures made, plus the reiterated assurances that France and Russia would rush assistance in the event of aggression.

Give Partial Self. Rule.

"The government will continue its policy of fostering a nationality statute, which will be submitted to Konrad Henlein (leader of the Sudeten Germans) when he returns from Germany."

The proposed statute would give partial self-rule to the Sudetens, but so far Henlein has been uncompromising in his demands for full autonomy.

Henlein, it was understood, will confer with Premier Milan Hodza early this week.

Greater nationalistic solidarity by the Czechs on one hand and the Germans on the other was shown in municipal election returns, leaving the two opposing elements more clearly delineated in their bitter struggle.

While the Sudeten German party of Konrad Henlein increased its votes and held a clear majority in the Germanic districts of Czechoslovakia, the actual German voting strength was not materially changed.

Last Poll Unchanged.

The total was about the same as that obtained in the last previous poll by the Sudetens and the two smaller German activist parties, now combined with the Sudetens.

Quickly demanding that conditions at the frontiers be returned to normal, representatives of the Sudetens met with Premier Milan Hodza today.

Hodza, a Sudeten spokesman said, was non-committal, saying he "hoped" normal conditions could be re-established "in a few days," but the premier refused to pledge any troop withdrawals.

In Prague and other large Czech cities, gains of 15 to 20 per cent were shown by the Czech national socialist party, the centrist group formerly headed by President Edouard Benes. Counting returns from Czech village, the former

Fight Opens on Wage-Hour, Recovery Bills

NEW DEALERS SEE VICTORY

Senate Debates Spend, Lend Program; House Takes Up Labor Legislation.

WASHINGTON —Congressional leaders began the pre-adjournment windup today by placing the $3,000,000,000 relief and public works bill before the senate and the revised wage-hour bill before the house.

Administration forces were confident of winning approval of both key measures, but a showdown senate fight was in prospect over a recommendation of the appropriations committee to restrict PWA financing of public utilities projects.

See Vote Delayed.

That controversy, members agreed, probably would delay a final vote on the bill until after the house acts on the wage-hour legislation.

The wage-hour bill came up under a petition signed by 218 members forcing it out of the rules committee, which had opposed its consideration.

The biggest issue involved wage differentials between the North and the South and between urban and rural communities. The revamped bill made no provision for such variations.

It would impose a graduated minimum wage on all industries in interstate commerce, starting at 25 cents an hour and increasing

Figures In Czechoslovakian - Nazi Crisis

Outstanding figures in the crisis between Czechoslovakia and Germany are shown above. In the center is Eduard Benes, president of Czechoslovakia, who ordered troop reinforcements on all border fortifications. Konrad Henlein, left, spokesman for Sudeten Germans, has demanded complete autonomy for his followers and has the backing of Adolf Hitler at the right. The current tension following the killing of two German farmers by Czech troops, and current elections forming a strength test of the Nazi minority in Czechoslovakia.

BACK IN JAIL AFTER BREAK

'Bad Man' Willard and Two Companions Caught by State Patrolmen.

Frank Willard, 24, of New York City, who was first captured by state highway patrolmen after a gun battle in Loudonville May 4, was one of three prisoners who were back in the Wayne county jail today after spending Saturday night cruising over the countryside in a futile attempt to slip throught a tightening police net after breaking out of jail Saturday afternoon.

The three were taken into custody by state highway patrolmen early yesterday, at Sunbury, 20 miles north of Columbus, as they stopped for a traffic light.

Undecided On Action.

Wayne county authorities said they were yet undecided as to what action to take in the case of the trio — Willard, Harold Knowlton, 18, of Wooster, and Lloyd Tuttle, 20, Orrville. Knowlton and Tuttle were trusties in the jail and had only a month yet to serve on breaking and entering terms imposed in place of suspended sentences at the Mansfield reformatory.

Mansfield state highway patrolmen first arrested Willard in Loudonville, after he had robbed a Wooster tavern, in a gun battle in which Willard exchanged shots with Patrolmen L. D Alexander and C. B. Tieben. Willard was cut by flying glass when a bullet shattered the windshield of his car.

He was taken to Mansfield

6 FROM COUNTY AT VOTE MEET

Hear Secretary of State Call for Cut in Balloting Costs, Criticize Variation.

Six Richland county election officials, in Columbus today for a two-day conference of board members and clerks, heard county election boards criticized for the wide variation between counties in the cost of elections.

Secretary of State William J. Kennedy, who called the session, told the group it was "difficult to understand how election reports showed a variation of from 50 cents to $23 60 in the cost of election lists per precinct and from 45 cents to $1.71 per vote for ballot printing."

Kennedy was expected to call for a reduction of at least $250,000 in Ohio election expenses this year.

"There must be a retrenchment in the cost of government, and the cost of elections are part of that government," he warned.

Figures compiled recently by Kennedy showed Richland county's election cost of $1.17 per vote as the fourth highest in the state. Cost of printing ballote in the county in 1936 was $3.52 per 100 votes as compared with $6.57 in Athens county and $1.05 in Hamilton county.

In the Richland county group attending the meetings are:

G. C. Balliet, chairman of the county board; W. M. Ferguson, F. L. Bricker and George Williams, members; A. F. Porter, clerk, and Walter Underwood, deputy.

4 HURT IN 2 AREA CRASHES

Cleveland Youth Arrested as Reckless Driver; Eight Killed in State.

Four persons, including one Mansfielder, were injured in two Richland county traffic accidents over the week-end, while eight died in traffic in the state. None of the accident victims in this area was believed hurt seriously.

An 18-year-old Cleveland youth, driver of a car in which his two companions were hurt in a crash Sunday afternoon on Route 42 near Windsor, was held in the county jail today on a charge of reckless driving.

The youth, Joe Damiano, was said by witnesses to have driven his car out of the line of traffic into the path of an automobile operated by L. Cleal, also of Cleveland. Damiano was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman who investigated the crash

Damiano's companions, Andrew Cable, 20, and John Sutera, 19, both of Cleveland, were treated at General hospital. Damiano's car was knocked off the road and turned over in a school yard, when

10,000 GIVE UP

Japs Claim Trapped Chinese Surrender Near Suchow.

WITH THE JAPANESE ARMY IN CENTRAL CHINA—(AP)—The Japanese field command said today that 10,000 demoralized Chinese soldiers had surrendered since the fall of Suchow.

The number of prisoners mounted rapidly as Japanese forces relentlessly pursued fragments of the routed Chinese army fleeing from the conquered central China railroad zone.

Fliers over the Suchow area in Japanese war planes saw ghastly spectacle of desperate, shattered Chinese fighting for their lives in the Suchow trap.

The Japanese said they had narrowed the trap down to an area roughly 12 miles in diameter.

TRUSTIES FLEE, ROB FARMHOUSE

Steal Clothing to Exchange for Uniforms, Revolver, Shells and Rings.

Two brothers who escaped Saturday afternoon from the Mansfield reformatory and are believed today by officers to have robbed a farm home in Mifflin township of clothing in which they fled were being hunted by northeastern Ohio police today.

The youths, Rodney Stanley, 20, and his brother, Raymond, 18, both trusties serving terms for auto theft, walked away from the reformatory where they were employed as waiters in the dining room in the administration building.

A pair of trousers of the kind worn by reformatory trustees, found in a woods in Mifflin township by Deputy Sheriff C. C. Gongwer, linked the pair with the robbery Saturday night of the Jefferson Smith home in Mifflin township where two men's suits, a topcoat, a revolver, a box of Broken Promises Of Territorial Rewards Uncovered In Secret Treaty; Britain, France Blamed.

ROME—(INS)—A hidden chapter of World war intrigue, disclosing how the allies broke their promises of territorial rewards to Italy, was unearthed by International News Service today.

There are competent observers in Italy today who believe it was this "betrayal" that paved the way to Fascism as Premier Mussolini's present-day diplomatic revenge.

The hitherto-unrevealed diplomatic intrigue centered about the secret treaty of San Giovanni Di Moriani, in which Great Britain, France and Russia promised Italy a huge slice of Turkey along with the port of Smyrna as her share of the projected partition of Asia Minor.

Sabotage of the agreement under pressure from Britain, Russia and France was considered here as directly responsible for collapse of the moderate liberal government of Premier Vittorio Orlando. This in turn created for Mussolini a golden opportunity to seize leadership and thus gave the world a man whose power is backed by a foreign policy aimed at redeeming all the allies' broken pledges of territorial and economic Relief Probers to Continue Study of Ohio Needy Aid.

COLUMBUS—(AP)— Spurred by its chairman's assertion that "a great many things need study," an 11-member house committee resumed investigation today on the poor relief situation in northern Ohio's large cities.

Rep. A. Lee Fair (D-Holmes), committee chairman, said the inquiry probably would be transferred today to Toledo, and Akron would be visited later in the week.

After spending four days "sampling" test cases from Cleveland's relief rolls, the committee concluded that the Cuyahoga county city needed to revise drastically its administration of aid for the needy, Fair said, and that its city council failed to appropriate adequately for indigents.

X-Ray Might Tell Which of 20 Ducks Has $800 Diamond

BOSTON — (INS) — A score of ducks swam placidly about the lagoon in the public garden today, alike as peas in a pod.

It may cost $100 for x-rays to determine which is different.

The different is an $800 diamond. The gem was pecked from a ring worn by Mrs Jeanne Lerman, wife of a Brookline physician, while she was feeding the fowl yesterday. One duck flapped her wings and pecked at the hand which held the food.

Under the law, the park commission is forbidden to sell the ducks to Mrs Lerman. Placing the ducks in quarantine would do little good, it was pointed out, as the gem might remain in the duck for weeks

Officials were to confer today on plans to examine the ducks by means of x-rays.

SUMMONS HULL

Roosevelt Cabinet Officer to Discuss European Crisis.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Concern over the international crisis was presumably the reason for a conference scheduled between President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull for this afternoon.

Announcement of the conference was made by White House Secretary Stephen T. Early at his regular morning conference. He said the president and Hull "would go over the situation generally."

Roosevelt Plans Trip Across Nation, South American Cruise

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — While war sparks snapped ominously over the wide open European tinderbox, President Roosevelt today was tentatively charting another good-will trip to South America designed to emphasize this government's insistence on strict observance of the Monroe doctrine.

Gravity of the domestic economic situation and uncertaintly as to when congress will adjourn prevented the chief executive from definitely announcing the tour at the moment, but those who enjoy his confidence say he hopes to swing down the west coast of South America and couch at Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Chile.

A cruise of this nature have a double-barreled purpose. In addition to promoting Pan-American relations, it would serve notice on the old world that the United States wants no interference in the affairs of the western hemisphere. Also, the departure from a west coast port would entail a trans-continental railroad swing that would enable the president to put a personal finger on the public pulse — and incidentally help out some of the more ardent New Dealers up for re-election this year.

Gas Rate Ordinance To Get Second Reading Tuesday Night

City council will meet in special session tomorrow night, on the call of Mayor Claude M. Hunter, to give a second reading to a new gas rate ordinance, continuing the rates set up in the present contract which expired May 15.

First reading was given the ordinance by council 10 days ago. An Ohio Fuel Gas company's "sandbag" proposition, laid before them only informally by the utilities committee chairman Russell D. Porch, was ignored.

Porch had contended that the company's proposal would "leave the city in a bad bargaining position at the expiration of the contract."

It is expected that there will be little comment on the bill by council tomorrow night. The final reading is scheduled for the regular meeting June 7.

After passage by council, which is expected, the bill will be submitted to the gas company for approval or rejection. The company will have 30 days in which to act. Should it reject it, the state utilities commission will get the case for settlement. In the meantime the present rate would continue to be in effect.

It's ring around the "pay pole" for those who need extra Decoration Day CASH and have a used ice box, bike, boat, golf clubs, camera, or some cottage furniture they no longer need. A run down purse gets a 'spring tonic" in the For Sale want ads.

Mexican Military Revolt Spreads, Troops Seize Town

CEDILLO GAINS HOLD ON RAIL LINE SECTOR

Capture Follows Confiscation of Ousted Army General's Ranch by Government.

(By United Press)

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico—(By telephone to New York)—The "pocket" rebellion of Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, ousted military commander of San Luis Potosi state, was reported spreading today.

Soon after a strong force of federal troops took over Cedillo's ranch at Las Palomas, reports reached here that the town of Guadalcazar, about 60 miles to the northeast on the important railroad running to Tampico on the coast, had been taken over by the revolutionists.

Peasants Join Cedillo.

According to reports of the newspaper Universal, crack shot peasant followers of the former army general who helped President Lazaro Cardens put down the Escobar revolution in 1929, led the rebellion there. They are known as "Cedillistas."

Reinforcements for federal troops, "mopping up" while advancing in the direction of Tampico, were dispatched immediately following the reports from Guadalcazar which is in the vicinity of Las Palomas, the nearest town to Cedillo's ranch.

Sedillo and his followers, estimated to number between 1,500 and 3,000 men, were believed to have taken to the hills and the government, with approximately 20,000 men and a squadron of planes at hand, was confident that his "war" would be short lived.

A Cedillista airplane pilot bombed Cardenas' headquarters Saturday, but was chased off by government pursuit ships without causing material damage.

Trombone Blasts Leads To Rescue Of 7 From Lake

SANDUSKY—(INS)—Saved by a trombone.

That's the story told today by the musical Erney family, whose seven members were rescued by an unidentified man in a speedboat when their launch stalled in the dangerous south passage of Lake Erie between Kelleys Island and the mainland.

The family had played for the island junior-senior dance, and left by launch for their home in Sandusky after the party.

When the launch stalled, Donald Erney, oldest son and cornet player in the family orchestra, started playing bugle calls for help. No help came, so after half an hour the father, Norbert Erney, joined in with his trombone.

Father and son played duets for three hours until the speedboat put out from Lakeside and the rescue was effected.

The crowd that gathered at the airport yesterday afternoon to see Gretchen Reighard make her first parachute jump of the season was disappointed—but not any more than Gretchen was. It happened that way because the Mansfield airport doesn't have an official manager, and therefore no one in Mansfield was notified of a recent ruling of the department of the interior that no exhibition parachute jump may be made in the future without a permit from Washington. Gretchen learned of the ruling late Saturday and was unable to get a permit in time to jump Sunday.

Miss Lena Mae Teeter, clerk in county probate court, who observes her 20th birthday today, claims the distinction of being the first child born in the Mansfield General hospital. Miss Teeter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Teeter, 141 Hammond avenue.

PROJECT OK'D

U. S. Approves Resumption of Cataloging Records.

A $17,000 Works Progress Administration city records project that will provide employment for 30 people for a period of one year cataloging city records today had received approval of government officials in Washington.

The funds, most of which are furnished by the federal government, will finance a project recently discontinued when money ran out.

The WPA furnishes $15,292, all for labor and the sponsor, which is the city, furnishes $2,000.

The plan calls for installation of a scientifically prepared system for taking and maintaining of an inventory of the city equipment, continuation of the indexing and re-codifying of city ordinances, preparing maps and records for the engineering department, cross-index of fingerprint files for the police department and the installation of a personnel record file for the civil service commission.

Before work can be resumed, however, state WPA headquarters must release the project.

TELLS LABOR RALLY OF CIO DRIVE FOR OHIO WPA PROJECTS

The work of the Committee for Industrial Organization in Washington to obtain bigger Works Progress Administration projects for Ohio has been an "unceasing battle," Sherman H. Dalrymple, president of the United Rubber Workers of America, told an audience of nearly 200 at Central park Saturday.

Dalrymple, speaking at the first of a series of projected Richland county labor rallies, reviewed the accomplishments of the general labor movement during the depression.

"Our job has been untiring," he said, "in securing new projects for WPA in order to assist the unemployed within the ranks of the labor movement."

He said the URW had set up standing committees to further labor's cause from a national standpoint. Their purpose, he said, was to foster the proper legislation to assist labor, and to educate its members on the matter of unemployment insurance and social security.

Stanley Denlinger, Akron, counsel for the URW, told the audience to "get behind the labor movement."

Ben Atkins, Akron, member of the executive board of the Workers Alliance of Summit county, told the group that the organization he represented, "represented Roosevelt."

Short talks were also made by Atty. Joseph Bayer and O. H. Bosley, district organizer for the URW.

The meeting, conducted under the auspices of the Richland County Industrial Union council, was presided over by Ronald Chamberlin, president.

'LOVE NOTES' ON WORKERS' CARDS DRAW CRITICISM

Metzenbaum Asks Governor to Explain 'Espionage' in Cleveland Talk.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Gov. Martin L. Davey had before him today a challenge by James Metzenbaum, candidate for Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, to explain in Davey's scheduled speech here tomorrow night "his spy system."

This followed directly on the heels of an explanation of "five per cent" campaign contributions in a speech by Francis Poulson, state Democratic party chairman.

Metzenbaum, former special counsel for the Ohio senate's graft investigating committee, charged in an address here that "Davey and his inner circle have inaugurated the greatest espionage system ever known in any state."

He said that Mrs. Myrna Smith, the governor's secretary, noted on four sets of 30,000 cards, "information secretly collected about every employe.

Records 'Sweethearts.'

"This same lady wrote most intimate information concerning whose sweetheart she claimed girls to be, what gentleman had won their love from another man and similar alleged information.

"For this reason the senate committee and I counselled that the cards not be made public.

"At his meeting here Tuesday night Mr. Davey ought to take the opportunity to explain to the employes of Ohio their personal affairs have been spied upon and why anyone has the right to decree that they be 'worked to death,' given a 'back breaking job,' 'gotten hid of' or 'fired.'"

Poulson took the spotlight away from Governor Davey and Charles Sawyer, rival for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, at a cheering and booing meeting Saturday of the Federated Democratic Women of Ohio at Akron.

Poulson was greeted by boos and finally said "anyone who wants to demonstrate ability at booing, I'll share the platform with them.

"Contributions have always been made by state employes and always will be. There is practically no state where it is less than five per cent. Money has to come from your friends. You can't get it from your enemies," Poulson said.

FAIR ENOUGH!

A Few Hints To Il Duce To Help His Invincibles Advance To Rear Faster

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Confidential memorandum from the general officer commanding Il Duce Mussolini's invincible legions in Spain:—

Duce!

As commanding officer of the irresistible hordes who have been enforcing your inflexible will in Spain I have the honor to submit recommendations based on the practical lessons of the glorious events at Guadalajara which I trust I may, without immodesty, describe as the little Caporetto.

First, I earnestly recommend that, in the interests of economy and efficiency, your invincible legions henceforth be armed with wooden or papier-mache rifles, tin pea-shooters or some other weapon of purely nominal type and of the cheapest material and construction. The piece at present issued to your valiant black shirts is an expensive and dangerous incumbrance.

It is too costly to be thrown away in vast numbers when your heroes start advancing to the rear with the utmost rapidity and too heavy to permit the development of maximum speed. Moreover, our enemies have not been above seizing them where they have been discarded and shooting our conquering legions in the rear—the act of a cowardly foe, to be sure, but characteristic of the disorderly rabble which still rejects the heroic glories of Fascism.

Second, I urge oh Duce, that our general staff begin experimenting with roads made of cork or some springy composition used in the construction of indoor running tracks. Runners performing on this type of track can save one-tenth of a second in every hundred yards. True, our contemptible enemies will try to retreat on our heels, but they will be running in hobnailed field shoes of clumsy type, whereas I recommend that the servants of your irresistible determination be equipped with featherweight track shoes.

Moreover, oh Duce, I propose that our engineers prepare a variety of misleading highway signs, or markers, to be posted at intersections along the line of our dashing charge to the rear. These signs, or markers, should read, "Il Duce's Irresistible Hosts Went this Way ten minutes ago: Weather Clear, track fast; going like hell."

Third, I strongly suggest, oh Duce, that there be issued to your victorious legions a stout but lightweight sheet of body armor to be worn inside the trousers, astern, as our favorite strategy exposes our heroes to wounds in this sector. Needless to say, it is bad for our prestige to have so many wounded going around wearing this portion of their anatomy in slings.

Fourth, I recommend the organization of a fly-paper company as a unit of each regiment to unroll sheets of sticky paper on the highways, after our indomitables have passed by, to retard the forward retirement of the enemy.

Fifth, oh Duce, I call attention to the fact that our comrades in the Rome-Berlin axis are now sitting right on top of us and that they are exceedingly tough mugs, who have sworn to Anschluss all their minorities and therefore probably will steal back the 250,000 captive Heinies in our Tyrol one of these days.

When this happens your invincible ranks will not only need all their speed but should be provided with adequate springboard facilities at Brindisi, on the Adriatic, and at points on the Ionian sea. With proper facilities and adequate training they should be able to dive clear over into Albania or Greece or half-way to Libya in one graceful leap.

And, finally, oh Duce, I urgently propose that you use your influence to compel the civilized nations of the world to use silent guns and shells, as the present equipment makes a terribly loud noise—"bang! bang! bang!" All the time—and makes your invincible legions so nervous that they are not able to do full justice to your inflexible will,

Oh Duce!

Oh Duce, Duce!

Kootchey-kootchey, Duce!

The World Scene

A Thumbnail Portrait Of Eduard Benes, Key Man In Europe's New Crisis

—By DeWITT MacKENZIE

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Expert)

NEW YORK—The name of Czechoslovakia goes flashing across the war-clouds of an angry sky a dozen times a day.

This little republic—the last stand of democracy in central and eastern Europe—is a potential though unwilling cause of war.

We also hear much of Nazi Chieftain Hitler and his reported designs on his small neighbor; we learn that his brother dictator and ally, Signor Mussolini, has bestowed blessings on the German program for expansion; England, champion of small nations and democracy, makes it clear she cannot help Czechoslovakia unless British interests are involved; even France, god-mother of Czechoslovakia, is unable to protect the young nation excepting in case of direct attack against it

But of the one man who bears upon his shoulders in this crisis perhaps a greater responsibility than all the rest we hear scarce a word:—Eduard Benes, co-founder and president of Czechoslovakia.

He is the Solomon who must decide whether his country shall surrender its independence without a fight, or whether it shall send that crack army into the field. He is the David who is facing Goliath all but alone—for the days of collective security are done and he can get no help from Geneva.

As Benes goes, so may go the fate of Europe.

And of his equipment for this task? He has a brilliant, well-trained mind. He is a fighting man of peace. He is so clever as a diplomatist that he is credited with being one of the most skilled negotiators of his day.

Dr. Benes is 54 years old, with the energy of youth. He was born of Czech peasant parents, and smashed through harsh poverty to the highest rank of statesmanship.

We see him earning his way in the University of Dijon, France, and the Sorbonne in Paris, living on the pittance he earns by writing for Czech newspapers.

We find him in Austria during the World war, founding and operating an underground organization to supply the Allies with German war-planes.

At the war's end, Benes, the disciple, joins with Thomas Masaryk, the master, to evolve the plan from which the republic of Czechoslovakia is born through dismemberment of hostile countries, including Austria, by the Paris peace negotiators.

When Masaryk, the grand old man, becomes president of the new nation, the younger Benes assumes the portfolio of foreign minister, a post which he holds until 1935 when he takes up the reins of presidency which his chief lays down.

Benes is seven times president of the League of Nations council, and finally president of the assembly. It is an ironic circumstance that the league, to which he devoted so much of his life, is now unable to aid Czechoslovakia in her hour of need.

Two Girls Ask What 'A Past' Signifies

By VIRGINIA LEE

Two girls who sign themselves 21 and 22 want to know what it means when a woman has "a past."

These girls do not smoke or drink and are "good sports." They have been out with a good many boys, dance well, skate fairly well and have strict moral standards.

They have been told that a girl does not have to be "immoral" to be accused of having this mysterious thing called a "past," and they want to know if this is true. They wonder what the boys think of it.

To really have a "purple past" a girl is supposed to have "crossed the line," as you put it, girls, and had illicit relations with men. They may have been mothers without being married. That is the thing that haunts girls and makes them fearful of discovery.

Anyone may be accused unjustly of having been immoral, however, if they have kept fast company, whether they have actually done anything or not. That is why it is much wiser for them to go only with other young people of good character. It is easy to acquire a bad name, and then hard to prove that you have done nothing wrong if you go with a swift crowd without good moral standards.

A FAITHFUL READER is 16 and has been going with a boy "steady."

When they came home at night they were in the habit of parking down the road for half an hour or more. The girl's mother told her not to do this any more, and she told her boy friend. Now he has stopped coming to see her.

Our faithful reader wants to know if there is any harm in this parking business, and also if she should allow a boy to kiss her as much as he wants to.

If you and the boy friend are of good character, my dear, there is no more harm in having a visit in an automobile than there is in your mother's living room. But there always is a doubt in every mother's mind as to how far any young man may be trusted with her young daughter. It is perfectly natural that your mother should forbid you to do this and feel it may hold danger for you, especially if the boy is the kind who kisses you "as much as he wants to." Necking and petting in a car may lead to disastrous results, and your mother wants to safeguard you.

I think if your boy friend was the right sort he would understand how your mother feels and be glad to stop this parking. Maybe he will come back after he thinks the matter over. Your mother probably made him feel that she didn't trust him and hurt his feelings. I think it much better not to allow too many kisses.

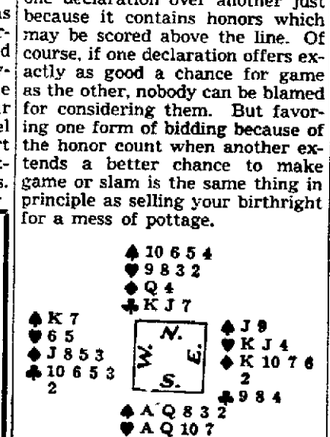
"The Authority on Authorities"

FORGET THE HONORS

NO MORE serious mistake can be made in bidding than to favor one declaration over another just because it contains honors which may be scored above the line. Of course, if one declaration offers exactly as good a chance for game as the other, nobody can be blamed for considering them. But favoring one form of bidding because of the honor count when another extends a better chance to make game or slam is the same thing in principle as selling your birthright for a mess of pottage.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulneravle.)

A player who likes to score honors was tempted by the aces in the South hand of this deal, so decided to open the bidding with a call of no trump. His holding was too strong for a mere bid of one, however, according to his reckoning, so he made it 2-No Trumps. North naturally had nothing to do but bid 3-No Trumps.

West made an inspired lead. Considering his club suit hopeless through lack of sufficient entries, he decided that diamonds might afford a better defense, so led the diamond 3. Down went the poor declarer.

How much better if South had opened with a bid of spades. When holding a five-card major, it may be laid down as an almost unbreakable rule that no trump should not be the opening bid. As the cards lay, six-odd could be made at spades, by getting an early diamond discard on clubs before trying the trump finesse.

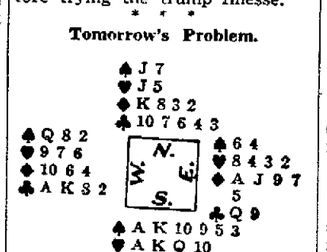
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the correct bidding of this deal and the correct play of the first three tricks?

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, May 24.

While there are auguries of some occurrences of a propitious and pleasant nature, according to the ruling planets, yet on the whole a day of surprising and peculiar developments is forecast.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very exciting year, with much sudden and surprising action of a drastic character. The emphasis may be on the intimate romantic affairs with peculiar turns and sudden twists, in which impetuosity, strife, extravagance and excess seem to figure.

A child born on this day may have a jolly, pleasant and kindly disposition, yet may be reckless, erratic, changeable and impulsive. It may, nevertheless, be popular and enoy surprising strokes of fortune.

Pinching Serves In Home Facial

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

Almost everyone over 20 years old would be benefited by an occasional facial treatment in a beauty salon. If you are one of the fortunate ones whose purse and leisure can afford this, you should indulge yourself at least once every two weeks.

Lots of people these days have neither the time nor the money to go in for those really helpful regimes. But that doesn't mean you are a lost bunny. Of course nothing can probably quite take the place of the strength and skill of an operator's trained fingers, but a beautiy specialist who is concerned about her home customers, has worked out an at-a-pinch system for women to use at home. It is the next best thing to a salon treatment.

This authority advocates pinching rather than the smoothing, slapping, rubbing or patting methods. It's a deep pinch and press movement that is entirely different from pinch the skin up and pulling it out.

After cleansing your face, pinch your face while applying your rich lubricating cream. Start at the base of your throat, working up to the chin and under the jawbone to the lobe of the ear. Now work behind the ear, to the base of the hairline.

Second, place your thumbs under your jaw-bone at the point of your chin and bend your forefinger at first and second joints. With small pincer-like movements, pinch — in an upward movement — along the jaw-bone, continuing this movement to the lobe of your ear.

From Jaw To Forehead.

Next start with your thumb and first finger at the jaw-bone, where the muscles have a tendency to form jowls. Work up the parenthesis line (sometimes called the expression lines) in small deep pinches until you reach the nostrils. Continue under the cheekbone to the lobe of the ear and up to the temple. Work deeply at the temple, then proceed over the forehead to the frowning lines. There concentrate a moment with one hand at each of the lines.

Here is the eye movement. Start pinching the temples and minimize the pressure as you approach the eye areas. Work in toward the corner of the nose. When you finish this movement, your thumb will have reached the bridge of your nose. Now complete the circle over the eyes.

Continue with your thumb and first finger lightly over the eyes until you reach the corners, where the muscles have a tendency to droop. Here, concentrate on the relaxed muscles, finishing at the temple, which is the source of blood supply to the eyes.

It's a swell idea to give yourself a home pinching. The movement will stimulate your skin and make your whole face feel fresh and youthful. And the warmth and manipulation will get your cream well into the skin.

To remove fruit stains from the hands rub them with salt moistened with vinegar.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

There was something joyously vindictive in my mother-in-law's voice which warned me I must use my very best strategy if I wished to avoid a domestic cataclysm before the arrival of Katherine and the children. Katie was in parlous state of nerves already and I knew that under no circumstances must I turn her over to the elder woman's martinet discipline.

I put my arm around my mother-in-law's waist and kissed her cheek, although I never had felt less like caressing her. I am exceedingly fond of my husband's mother, who has proven her loyalty to me and her genuine affection for me on numberless occasions, but when she gets started on her hobby of having the house freshly cleaned for company and putting Katie through her paces, she "leaves me cold," to use Dicky's slangy parlance.

This was no time for half measures, I told myself sternly, and resolved to use hypocrisy, coaxing and any other weapon available to my hand rather than have my faithful Katie bedeviled, as Dicky's doughty mother was undoubtedly planning.

Madge Offers Plan.

"Mother Dear," I said. "You are too thoughtful of me altogether. I am not in the least tired. In fact, I never have felt better, and I simply will not consider shifting my household duties to your shoulders. Now just consider this. Katherine and the children, even if they start at daylight, cannot possibly get here until late afternoon tomorrow. That will give us all the forenoon to clean, and I promise you I will have Katie at it at daybreak. She and I will have our breakfast 'by candle light.' You know how I like to get up early in the morning, and both Katie and I can work better in the first part of the day."

A grim smile twitched the corners of her mouth as she looked comprehendingly at me.

"You mean she can work better if I'm not behind her with a hickory switch, so to speak," she said, and I felt myself flushing at the thrust.

"I think you're mistaken," she went on. "I flatter myself I can make that ape jump quicker than anybody else can, but it's a fatiguing process for me, and if you're sure you're not tired, I shall be glad to stay out of it."

Everything in Readiness.

"I'm not tired at all," I reiterated, "and by the time you get up in the morning, all the heavy cleaning will be over. There will only be dusting, bed making and arranging of flowers. If you'll arrange those you've just picked, that will be so much saved for tomorrow."

"I'd never think of arranging flowers when you are in the house, my Child," she said with the ungrudging admiration she is capable of giving. "Just gather those up and put them where you wish. I had the fun of picking them, and there are bushels more. With you handling them, the house ought to look like a bower by the time Mrs. Bickett and the children get here."

I flattered myself that her prediction was justified the next day, when, with every room "swept and garnished," with autumn blossoms in every possible container, Mother Graham and I sat on the veranda waiting for the travelers. With characteristic forethought, Katherine had told Bill to telephone us from Riverhead, so that dinner was about ready to put on the table, and everything else in readiness for their reception.

Flowers Thrill Her.

"Oh! the lovely blossoms!" Katherine, the flower-lover, exclaimed enthusiastically when we had exchanged our first greetings. "We had the first hard frost up in New Hampshire three nights ago, and Mrs. Gibbs' garden is gone. I was so afraid for this one, until I remembered how much later they bloomed down here. Oh Hank! will you bring in the things for Faith, please?"

Hank, looking over the landscape leisurely, passed the word along in lordly fashion which boys in their teens so often affect.

"Here, Jun! Rod!" he ordered. "Get busy here with this luggage."

And then, to my horror, my young son, who had been hugging me ecstatically, walked up to his older cousin and deliberately thumbed his nose at him.

"That for you, you big bully!" he said.

Menu Hint.

Fruit Juice
Meat Balls with Rice
Buttered Asparagus Radishes
Date Pecan Pie Tea or Coffee

Boil rice, and when meat and rice are done, pile the rice in the center of a platter, arrange meat balls around it and pour sauce over all.

Today's Recipes.

MEAT BALLS—One and one-half pounds ground beef, one-half pound ground pork, one and one-half cups bread crumbs, one egg, two teaspoons salt, dash pepper, one teaspoon grated onion. Combine ingredients in order named. Shape into balls. Melt a small amount of bacon fat or other meat drippings in a pan. Brown meat balls in it. Place balls in a greased baking dish or casserole. Over them pour the following sauce. Sauce—Two tablespoons chopped onion, one cup sliced mushrooms (canned or fresh), two tablespoons butter, two and one-half cups tomatoes, one-half cup sliced stuffed olives, bit of bay leaf. Saute onion and mushrooms in butter three minutes. Add tomaties, olives and bay leaf. Pour over meat and bake meat balls in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, about one hour. This amount will serve six to eight.

Cultivate strawberry plants until flowers open, then spread straw or grass under the leaves. The dust that arises when cultivating often destroys the fertilization of flowers, resulting in poor stdawberries.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Star glamour versus box office draw is no new headache in movie producer offices. It has been with them years.

When a New York group of "independent" movie exhibitors recently charged in a paid trade paper advertisement that several topflight salary stars had lost draw, Hollywood retorts, official and otherwise, could be summed up as follows:

Advertising group did not represent mass exhibitor opinion—but localized "beef."

Blast may have been attempt to forestall any increase in exhibitor costs for films as the new selling season opened.

High salaries result from competitive demand for star names, but all studios are trying to develop new names constantly.

A star who has proved box office worth can do it again.

In the records Hollywood has ample instances to justify the latter claim. It could cite:

Barbara Stanwyck, whose choice for "Stella Dallas" was deemed foolhardy even in Hollywood where she was regarded poor draw. "Stella Dallas" and Stanwyck clicked.

Jeannette MacDonald, currently thirteenth on Motion Picture Herald's independent exhibitor poll of 1937 stars, whose popular appeal had dropped until "Naughty Marietta" and subsequent hits zoomed it again.

William Powell, now sixth on same poll, who was considered all washed up when he left Warners after series of poor pictures but clicked big in "The Thin Man" and other hits at Metro.

Clark Gable, whose popularity seemed temporarily checkmated until he made "It Happened One Night," has risen steadily until now second only to Shirley Temple in draw.

Wallace Beery, another "all-washed-up" star who came back to make the Big Ten, still holds place among top 15.

Marie Dressler, flop in first pictures, kept on to become a leading box office star at death.

Here is the speculative outlook for some others named by the advertisement:

Katharine Hepburn, solid hit in "Little Women," fell off through later films, some unfortunate, some fine, but not big grossers, has broken with RKO over story disagreement. Has excellent chance in forthcoming Columbia film, "Holiday," recalled as the same picture that made Ann Harding a top name in 1930.

Marlene Dietrich, hit in the foreign-made "The Blue Angel" and in Hollywood's "Morocco," "Shanghai Express" and others, has had a series of flops but has signed with Columbia to be directed by star-making, star-saving Frank Capra.

Joan Crawford, in the Big Ten 1934-35-36, rated 16 in the 1937 poll, still considered good draw by studio despite several unsensational films. She has signed new five-year contract and may be put forth as singing star with secretly developed voice.

Kay Francis, reported planning retirement with marriage in fall, but for others old rule may hold—one hit picture can make anybody an exhibitors' darling.

THEATER

JANET GAYNOR, who came back to a bigger and better screen career with "A Star Is Born," is working in "The Young In Heart," another choice role . . . Merle Oberon made two English pictures while in London, which may be released over here later. They are "Over The Moon," and "The Divorce of Lady X" . . . "The Count of Monte Cristo," which introduced Robert Donat to American movie goers, is being re-issued through United Artists . . . Walter Wanger is putting all of his energies these days into "Algiers" which he hopes will be one of the biggies of the year . . . Fred MacMurray and Harriet Hilliard are working a new musical "Cocoanut Grove," and William C. Fields will do "Mr. Bumpus Goes To London" for his next picture.

Turn To Comedy.

The screen's glamorous "clothes horse" and its rough-and-ready he-man are teamed in a comedy of life, love and marriage in New York's gayest set, in "Women Are Like That" which opens at the Majestic tomorrow for three days. Lovely Kay Frances and Pat O'Brien romp through a give-and-take romance and marriage that hits the rocks and bounces back again before the final curtain. Ralph Forbes is the man waiting at the altar for Kay while she is busy eloping with the other man—O'Brien. Miss Frances as usual wears some stunning gowns as the wife of a crack advertising writer. In the second Majestic feature, Gloria Stuart, Michael Whalen and Paul Kelly are featured in "Island In The Sky."

Brunet Kay Francis turns her charm and talent to romantic comedy in "Women Are Like That" which is booked for the Majestic for three days, starting Tuesday. Pat O'Brien plays opposite her.

Loretta's New Coiffure.

Loretta Young wears a new hairdress in "Four Men and A Prayer," which may or may not appeal to her followers. Richard Greene, the new English actor, who makes his American bow in this, is pretty sure to appeal to American femmes—what with his particular assortment of eyes, hair, dimples and square chin. The story, written by David Garth for Cosmopolitan magazine, is a stirring tale of four sons who set out to clear their father's name and distinguished army record, and their hunt leads them to a world-wide munitions ring. The sons are played by George Sanders, David Niven, Greene and William Henry. C. Aubrey Smith plays the father. The picture remains at the Madison through Tuesday.

Robin At The Ohio.

Sherwood Forest, Nottingham castle and all of the other locales of Robin Hood legend have been beautifully recreated for the picture built around this half mythical, half legendary figure. Because there is little proof of his actual deeds, the scenarists have used their imagination to create a new story for this talking picture version, and which differs radically from the early Doug Fairbanks version. They have built a dramatic love story about Robin and Maid Marian, the ward of Richard the Lion Hearted, but all of the other figures are familiar to the Robin Hood legends. Errol Flynn, as Robin, leads his merry band of men as they ride from Sherwood Forest to right the wrongs of humanity, and Olivia de Havilland plays Maid Marian.

Boston Bees Hang Up 7th Straight Win

Conquer Chicago, 2 to 1, in 11 Innings.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

If the durable arms of the veteran flingers hold out, Boston's Bees are going to give the Red Sox a run for their customers in one of the best baseball cities in the big leagues. Likewise they're going to give a lot of other National League clubs an argument about the pennant situation.

It's strange enough to see both Boston clubs up there in third place in their respective leagues, but the Bees' current winning streak bids fair to become a real sensation.

Shoffner Stars.

The Bees conquered Chicago's Cubs, 2 to 1, in an 11-inning mound duel between Lefty Milt Shoffner, this year's 31-year-old "rookie," and Clay Bryant. They ran their latest winning streak to seven straight, cut Chicago's second-place margin to one game, and turned in their fourth triumph in six extra-inning games this season. Shoffner pitched seven-hit ball and singled home the winning run in the eleventh.

The Giants whanged away at three Pittsburgh pitchers to beat the Pirates 18-2.

Rudy York's all-important homer was made in Detroit's first inning against the Red Sox and enabled the Tigers to win, 4-3, although held to six hits by Jack Wilson. Ted Lyons, in his 15th year with the Chicago White Sox, pitched wisely to give the Sox a 9-2 triumph over Washington, allowing nine hits and pulling himself out of several bad spots.

The day's outstanding mound performances, however, were seen in Philadelphia where Pete Sivess of the Phils and Bill McGee of the St. Louis Cardinals matched five-hitters. Philadelphia won, 2-1, as all the scoring came in the last inning.

Beat Brooklyn.

Cincinnati's Reds, aided by Ival Goodman's tenth homer of the season, beat Brooklyn, 8 to 3, and the Philadelphia Athletics turned back the St. Louis Browns, 8-5, in ten innings when Buck Newsom, who had hurled a full game Saturday, couldn't hold the A's in a ten-inning relief role.

BELLVILLE ELIMINATED IN TIFFIN TOURNEY

Bellville high school was eliminated in the district Class B baseball tournament in Tiffin, Saturday. Bellville bowed to Pemberville, 10 to 8.

Harder Gets Credit for Win Over Yanks After Injury Forces Feller Out.

CLEVELAND—The fourth largest crowd in Cleveland baseball history and the biggest of the current major league season came to see youthful Bob Feller silence the big bats of the world champion New York Yankees and then stuck around to see a rookie and a veteran finish the job.

Before a crowd of 62,244 persons, the Indians defeated the Yankees 8 to 3 here yesterday to increase their league lead to two full games.

Hurled Three Innings.

The crowd came to see Feller duplicate the performance he turned in against the Yanks on Cleveland's recent trip east. The 19-year-old Iowa fanboy made a gallant effort to satisfy the howling mob, but a back injury forced him out of action after he had pitched three complete innings. If it had not been for the huge crowd on hand it is exceedingly doubtful if Feller would have been sent to the box at all.

Dr. M. H. Castle, club physician, said Feller's injury was "nothing serious" and that the young fire-baller would be able to take his regular turn "within a few days."

Feller had a three run lead when he retired. During his stay in the box he gave the Yanks only one hit, that pop single by Frankie Crosetti.

After Feller was removed Johnny Humphries, a raw rookie, was sent to the hill. He blanked the New Yorkers for two innings, but in the sixth the Yanks pushed across three runs and the veteran Mel Harder was rushed in. He quickly quelled the uprising and was given credit for the win.

Earl Averill was the particular hero of the day, driving in four runs with two successive hits. Pearson, the losing pitcher, was the goat, his wildness in the third allowing three runs on but one hit.

Roy Weatherly, batting for Feller, walked to start the frame. Bruce Campbell also walked, and Sammy Hale hit to short and the bases were loaded when Frank Crosetti threw wildly to second in an effort to force Campbell. Averill then singled to left on the first pitch, Weatherly and Campbell scoring.

Both Ken Keltner and Hal Trosky then walked, forcing in another run. Lyn Lary started the hitting in the fourth with a single; Hale also singled. So did Jeff Heath, and another run was in. Averill then singled to right, scoring Heath and Hale and sending Pearson to the showers.

Keltner Doubles.

Keltner started the fifth with a double, Rollie Hemsley singled and Humphries drove him home with a single over the infield. Hemsley finished the Indian scoring when he advanced on Lary's fly and crossed the plate on Campbell's single.

Tommy Henrich's single, Lou Gehrig's double, a walk to Dickey and singles by Bill Knickerbocker and Myril Hoag scored the Yanks' runs and finished Humphries. Gehrig strained his back on the double and was replaced by Dahlgren.

MANSFIELD HIGH GOLFERS WIN DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIP

Moorhead Takes Individual Honors in Tourney Held in Bucyrus.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE Mansfield high school golf brigade today sported the championship of the eastern section of the northwestern Ohio district as they prepared to participate in the Ohio finals in Columbus this week-end.

The once-defeated Mansfield foursome won its way into the state meet last Saturday at Bucyrus by finishing with a low medal total of 349 to top seven other high school entraies. Fremont, which finished second with a total of 358, will also compete in the state tourney.

Mansfiel, led by Bob Moorhead, whose 79 won individual low medal honors, had things well under control as it toured the Bucyrus Country club in near-par figures. John Hallabrin followed Moorhead in with 83, Chuck Schlegel finished with 84 and Harold Bogner tallied a 90.

The other high school clubs competing in the district tourney finished in the following order; Bucyrus, 367; Fremont, 375; Lima South, 377; Lima Central, 384, and Ashland, 392.

Mansfield will trek to Columbus Friday to play its first 18 holes and will finish with the final 18 on Saturday morning. The tourney will be staged on the new Ohio State university course. The state title will be decided on low medal play for the two-day event. Sixteen teams will compete in the meet.

Legion Clubs Ball To Win Inaugural

Turns Back Logan, 13 to 4, Before Slim Crowd Sunday at Fairground.

By OSCAR RUHL

MANSFIELD'S end of the Central Ohio semi-pro league schedule was lifted in an auspicious fashion by the American Legion club at the Fairground Sunday before a handful of spectators.

Manager Dewey Durant's charges broke into the win column in their home debut with a 13 to 4 victory over Logan.

Sew It Up Tight.

It was a fairly interesting ball game until the eighth, when the Legionnaires pushed seven runs across the plate to dampen whatever hopes the visitors had of staging a winning rally.

Collecting 14 base knocks, which they mixed with seven passes and a pair of errors, the Legionnaires treated four pitchers rather harshly as Lefty Deeds and Aid Geiger knitted an easy triumph to balance the season record with one victory and one defeat.

Deeds did a fine job of throwing in his first 1938 appearance, and left the box at the end of the eighth after his teammates had compiled an unsurmountable margin. He struck out eight and issued only two pass walks.

Geiger pitched the last inning, and, outside of an error, retired the side without damage.

Deeds yielded only one fluke hit in the first four innings, and then coasted the rest of the way. He gave up two runs in the fifth, one in the sixth and the fourth in the eighth. The big left-hander was never in serious straits as he had a nice margin on which to work all the way.

Mansfield dented the dish three times in the opening inning, and never trailed thereafter. The Legionnaires extended their advantage with three more runs in the fourth, and then went runless until the "nightmarish" eighth.

Five straight singles off the clubs of Dale Leedy, Junior Keester, Tommy Moxley, Lloyd Beal and Charley Baker, after Freddy Lewis had opened the inning with a walk and Dick Donnan sacrificed, produced the first three tallies.

Deeds, Donnan and Keester clouted out hits after Silsby walked to account for the next trio in the fourth.

Hard To Get Out.

In the eighth, Mansfield counted six times before an out was registered, Deeds opening the frame by reaching first on an error. Four straight walks and a hit batsman were factors in the run-making in this hectic inning in which the Legionnaires obtained only three safeties.

Dale Leedy of Bellville, who made his debut with the Legion club Sunday, banged out a triple, double and single to lead the Mansfield offense. Deeds, Donnan and Keester each collected a pair of blows.

The Legion boys showed plenty of punch at the plate and, despite four errors, conducted themselves well in the field. Judging from this game, the Legionnaires should create a big following with their aggressive style of play.

Mansfield will again be home Sunday to meet New Philadelphia.

Trackmen Hang Up Spikes This Week

Reserve, Grade School Teams End Schedule; Red Streaks Third In District Finals.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

APPARENTLY, working on the theory that a track meet a day will keep defeats away in the future, Coach Harry Mehock will put his Red Streaks of a coming day through a heavy week of action to conclude the season at Stadium field this year.

Something like 50 track meets of major and minor importance have already been run off at the Mansfield high school athletic plant this season, and the results of the development of these future Red Streaks should become evident in the coming years.

The varsity thin-clads concluded their luckless season by finishing a rather poor third in the district championships in Fremont Saturday, but the reserves and grade school athletes will not hang up their togs until this week.

This week will mark the end of track competition in the city, but the school's banner will continue to be carried throughout the summer months by Capt. John Linta, who plans to compete in his specialty in many of the major amateur events over the country.

Reserves In Ashland.

The last week of competition for the home town athletes started today with the reserves competing in a triangular fiesta in Ashland, which includes Canton Lehman as a participant.

Grade school affairs are on the bill Tuesday and Wednesday and the heavy schedule of events will be brought to a close Thursday with the city grade school carnival.

Mansfield failed to figure as prominently in the battle of points in the Fremont eliminations as expected.

Coach Mehock's men did not place first in a single event, and registered only a trio of seconds in the meet won by Sandusky with 64 points. The host school finished second with 52 points, and Mansfield trailed with 38.

Weakened by the heel injury suffered by Linta, the Mansfield squad never was a factor in the competition after the first couple of events, although it qualified more men than any of its rivals.

Linta, who discarded a pair of crutches the day before the meet, was unable to scale even 10 feet in the pole vault which he would have won going away had it not been for his injury.

Wins Half Point.

However, despite the painful injury, Linta was able to garner a half point for his school in his specialty by tying a teammate, Howard Hershey, for fifth place.

In addition to the bad heel, Linta was handicapped by the pro-Fremont crowd, which shook the very uprights of the vault bar with its booes.

Evidentally, not knowing of the handicap under which Linta competed, the spectators pierced the young star's spirit with their demonstrations because he had failed to live up to advance notices.

It was probably the worst exhibition of unsportsmanship ever witnessed at a high school event in these parts.

Visibly affected by the booing, Linta, despite the aching heel, came back in the 220-yard low hurdles to finish second behind Willis Coover of Shelby. This was an magnificent exhibition of courage.

Mansfield's other points were garnered by Jack Lyons and Daryl Heiser, who finished third and fourth respectively in the high hurdles; Joe Logan and Bill Starks, third and fourth in the century; Elmer Dials, tie for third in the high jump; Rich Nagle, third in the discus; Dick McMullen, fourth in the 440; Bill Bibbs, fourth in the low hurdles; Logan, third in the 220; Ike Smith, tie for second in the broad jump, and the 880-yard and mile relay teams, which won second and third places in their respective events.

Set New Records.

New records in the Class A division were set by Chesterfield Rogers of Sandusky in the mile, Pete Erchenbrecher of Fremont in the 220-yard dash and Sandusky mile relay team.

Following Mansfield in the Class A scoring was Bucyrus, 26 points; Tiffin Columbian, 13; Galion, 11½; Shelby, 7; Norwalk, 6½, and Bellevue, 3.

Oak Harbor tallied 64¼ points to annex the Class B toga. New London was second with 24⅛, and Lakeside, 20; Margaretta, 18; Milan, 12⅛; Sulphur Springs, 10; Thompson, 9; Elmore, 8½; Huron, 8½; Republic, 8; Holmes-Liberty, 7½; Sycamore, 7; Monroeville, 7; Melmore, 5; Gibsonburg, 3½; Birmingham, 3; Townsend, 3; Green Springs, 3; North Robinson, 1; Clyre, 1 followed.

Athletes finishing in the first three places of each event qualified for the state finals to be held in Columbus Saturday. However, Mehock does not intend to send any of the Mansfield qualifiers to the state affair as he figures it would be useless after their failure in the district carnival.

Canzols Fall Before Shiloh

Lose When Host Scores 6 in Seventh Inning.

Ira D. Ling's Canzols added a 13 to 6 defeat to their record Sunday when they bowled to the Shiloh Lions, 13 to 6, in Shiloh. Shiloh cinched the verdict with a six-run rally in the seventh after the Oilmen took a brief lead in the previous inning.

Gil Weigand started on the hill for the Canzols, but he was forced to give way to Theaker, who finished the game. The Lions obtained 16 hits.

Dent pounded out a triple and two singles to lead the attack of the losers.

Suffer Losses At Sandusky

Hi-Speeds Take It on Chin Twice From Amburns.

Mansfield's Hi-Speeds suffered their first defeats of the season Sunday when they bowed to the touted Sandusky Amburns in a double-header at Sandusky.

The Mansfielders dropped the opener, 8 to 5, and then lost the abbreviated night-cap, 4 to 2. The Hi-Speeds had scored two straight victories before running into the Amburns Sunday. They defeated the Sandusky club in the opening game of the season at League park.

Petey Beer, who was seeking his third win of the season, worked the first game, and although he allowed only nine hits, ran into trouble in the fourth and fifth innings. Sandusky tallied four times in the fourth and then iced the affair with a three-run uprising in the fifth. Hoffman and Bassetti hit home runs for the winners.

The Hi-Speeds solved Hidberg for nine hits, but were unable to bunch them except in the sixth inning when they tallied three runs. Joe Majoy, Bob DeHaven and Clarence Herrick paced the Mansfielders' attack with two hits apiece.

Bill Knackstedt, who made his first appearance of the season as a starting pitcher for the Hi-Speeds in the seven-inning night-cap, held the winers to three hits, but ran into trouble in one inning. After blanking Sandusky for three frames, he weakened and allowed the club to dent the plate for four tallies to win the game. Platte, who collected a triple, was the only Sandusky player to get an extra base hit off Knackstedt.

Mansfield came back with two runs in the sixth but were unable to do any more damage as Menefee let them down with four hits.

Michigan To Graduate Few

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The University of Michigan had its second straight western conference track and field championship tucked away today, and indications were that the Ann Arbor Wolverines would beat off all challengers again next year.

The "champions of the west" piled up 61½ points Saturday to retain the laurels they won a year ago. Wisconsin was second with 36 points as Michigan grabbed its 16th title in 38 years, and Ohio State pulled up third with 31½.

Michigan landed 11 men in the scoring list, in addition to its mile relay team which finished fifth for a single point. But the thing that worries the other coaches of the conference is that eight of the 11, who contributed 50½ points to the cause, will be back in Michigan scanties in 1939.

Only Walter Stone, John Townsend and Fred Martin, who combined for 10 points, graduate in June, leaving the Wolves about half a hundred points for a working margin in next year's conference classic at Ann Arbor.

Angry Coast Fans Threaten Umpires

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Police riot squads were called to save two umpires from angry baseball fans at Wrigley field after the arbiters forfeited the Coast league game between Hollywood and Sacramento to the latter in the third inning yesterday.

Hollywood forfeited the game when the team refused to stop arguing over a decision and resume play. For 30 minutes afterwards the fans rioted outside the umpires quarters. When police squads finally escorted umpires C. G. Falls and Henry Fanning through the mob to an awaiting automobile to be whisked away, a barrage of pop bottles, beer cans, seat cushions and anything movable was laid down by the aroused devotees of baseball.

ISALY DAIRYS EDGE LOCAL 40 TEAM, 2 TO 1

The Isaly Dairys edged the Local 40 team, 2 to 1, Sunday at Prospect park. The winners scored their two runs in the second. Frisbee, Isaly pitcher, held the losers scoreless in all but the fourth inning when they pushed across a single tally.

Billiards Top Mt. Vernon 9-4

The Rex Billiards inaugurated Saturday baseball in Mansfield this season by drubbing the Mt. Vernon Merchants, 9 to 4, last Saturday at League park. Manager Russ Remy was on the mound for the Mansfielders and let the invaders down with nine hits.

Grabbing a two-run lead in the opening inning, the Billiards coasted through in easy fashion. They added another marker in the second, four in the third and then iced the affair with two more in the seventh.

Vanostrand led the Mansfield club's attack with a double and single. Nickelvich and B. Skulski contributed doubles for the losers.

Dayton Star Annexes Title

Dayton's Joe Zotkiewicz captured individual honors in the Ohio Inter-Collegiate meet in Cincinnati Saturday, when he defeated his teammate, Paul Genung, 4 and 3, in the final round. It was the third straight year the Dayton senior acquired the crown.

The Ohio conference golf tournament held in Granville went to Marietta's 20-year-old Dan Cowley who turned in a 302 score, 13 strokes better than Denison's Gene Durant, who finished second. Denison copped the team championship.

At Gambier, Don McNeil, Kenyon, America's ninth ranking tennis ace, beat his teammate, Morey Lewis, in the finals to win the Ohio conference net title. Kenyon also took the doubles when Prior and Reeder teamed up to Sundberg and Goruley, Wittenberg.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Advice to the Lovelorn. By Harold Gray

SURE - I SHOULD HAVE GUESSED THERE'D BE AN ACE CHANCE AND SHE'D BE LOYAL TO HIM - SHE'S THAT SORT - I WAS A FOOL -
FOOL? NO - NOT YOU, JACK - NOT YET, ANYWAY - THAT DEPENDS ON HOW YOU TAKE THIS - 5-23-38
OH, I KNOW - WORK! IT'S THE BEST MEDICINE FOR WHAT AILS ME - YOU SAID THAT BEFORE - WORK! BAH! FOR WHAT? FOR WHOM? SUCCESS? PHOOEY!
YOU'RE YOUNG, MY BOY - I'M OLD - YES, OLD AND MEDDLESOME -
NO - I WANT YOUR ADVICE, SHANGHAI - IT'S ONLY - I - ROSE - SHE - SHE'S SO FINE - EVERYTHING COULD HAVE BEEN - AW, I'M TAKING IT LIKE A CRY-BABY -
WE CAN'T SEE THE FUTURE - BUT USUALLY IT IS BRIGHTEST FOR THOSE WHO GO TO MEET IT BRAVELY -
HAROLD GRAY
RIGHT! I'M TAKING YOUR ADVICE - WORK! I'LL WORK AS FEW MEN HAVE EVER WORKED - I'LL SHOW YOU - I'LL SHOW MYSELF!
THAT'S THE STUFF, MY BOY!

THE NEBBS—The Mystery. By Sol Hess

LOOK, RUDY, HERE'S A "PERSONAL" IN OUR HOME-TOWN PAPER. "WOULD LIKE TO KNOW WHEREABOUTS OF RUDOLPH NEBB - IS HE STILL ALIVE OR MEMBERS OF HIS FAMILY, IF ANY."
LET'S SEE, FANNY!
5-23
NOW WHO DO YOU SUPPOSE WANTS TO KNOW?
MAYBE SOMEBODY DIED AND LEFT US A FORTUNE - I HOPE SO - I'D LIKE SOMETIME TO FEEL LIKE I COULD SPEND A DIME WITHOUT FEELING LIKE SOME DEAR ONE LEFT HOME - NEVER TO RETURN
WELL, I'LL WRITE AND SAY, "RUDY NEBB LIVES IN NORTHVILLE AND IS STILL VERY MUCH ALIVE - PHYSICALLY."
YOU'D BETTER PUT A SPECIAL DELIVERY STAMP ON IT - I DON'T KNOW IF I CAN WAIT FOR THE ANSWER

PAM—Hope! By A. W. Brewerton

YES, JIM, IT'S A SLIM CHANCE, I KNOW — BUT IF ANY ONE CAN DO IT THIS DOCTOR DAWN IS THE MAN — HE'S TOPS — IN THE WHOLE WORLD, I GUESS — ON SUCH THINGS.
WILL IT BE PAINFUL, DAVE?
WELL — I SUPPOSE SO — IT'S A DELICATE OPERATION — PRACTICALLY HAS TO BREAK — THAT ANKLE LOOSE AGAIN.
THIS WIZARD SURGEON HAS PERFORMED SOME PERFECT MIRACLES, THEY SAY — AND HE REALLY GAVE ME HOPE! — WHEW! BUT IT'S COSTING THE GOVERNMENT PLENTY MONEY — I'M LUCKY THEY'RE BACK OF ME! — THE CHIEF IS A PRINCE.
YOU DESERVE ANYTHING THEY CAN DO, DAVE! DIDN'T YOU GET CRIPPLED ON DUTY?

PRICE CHANGES MIXED IN QUIET STOCK SESSION

Steels, Motors, and Utilities Accorded Mild Support in Slow Trading.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks jogged over a narrow route in today's market.

With dealings exceptionally quiet, the list displayed slightly mixed price changes at the opening. Steels and motors subsequently were accorded mild support, along with selected utilities and coppers Minor gains and losses were about evenly divided near the second hour.

News from Washington and the business front still lacked stimulating qualities marketwise and tension over the German-Czech flare-up, with its fresh threat to European peace, tended to keep most traders in a subdued frame of mind.

Those watching the steel shares for signs of a switch in market trend noted scant encouragement in the weekly survey of the magazine "Steel."

Observers in the Pittsburgh area found conditions still murky, the opinion being expressed by some that, with both the farm implement and automobile industries in seasonal declines, activities in the mills were likely to continue easing until July at least. For the second half of the year a moderate pickup was looked for, but no substantial increase was thought probable until the early part of 1939.

to 40 cents after three years. Maximum hours of work would start at 44 a week and would drop to 40 in two years.

Informed members said Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas would support a movement to make the measure more flexible in the way of differentials, but Rayburn told reporters he believed the bill would go through by tomorrow night without substantial change

Hits 'Differentials'.

Chairman Norton (D-NJ) of the house labor committee said the original wage-hour bill was rejected by the house last December "because it had differentials".

A coalition of northern Democrats, Republicans, Progressives and Farmer-Laborites supported Mrs Norton's attempts to prevent amendments, but southern Democrats and some Republicans were trying to modify the measure

A denunciation of the bill came from Representative Cox (D-Ga), one of its most implacable foes, who said it was traceable to the action of the 1936 Democratic National convention in abolishing the two-thirds rule for the nomination of presidential candidates

"The abolition of this rule," Cox said, "took from the south, as it was intended to do, all power to impress its influence upon the affairs of the party which it had kept in life when it had no other friends.

"The wage-hour bill is another carpet-bag expedition into the south and it is so intended It is another Sherman's march to the sea spread out from coast to coast"

Leaders said the first major test probably would come on a proposal by Representative Ramspeck (D-Ga), ranking majority member of the labor committee, to substitute a more flexible measure The latter would provide for a graduated minimum wage based on the weighted average wage in individual occupations

Foes of the measure asserted election year circumstances had made defeat of the bill in the house impossible Wage-hour legislation was supported by Senator Pepper (D-Fla), who won renomination Representative Stack, the only Pennsylvania Democrat to oppose it, was defeated for renomination

Both the American Federation of Labor and the CIO have endorsed the revised bill

CZECHS RETAIN BORDER GUARD

Nation Stands Pat on Policy Toward Nazis; Party Voting Strength Unchanged.

Benes party advanced by 30 per cent.

The voting, watched with trepidation by all the world, was orderly. But not one of the 400,000 to 500,000 soldiers placed by defiant little Czechoslovakia along the German borders and throughout their Sudeten areas was recalled.

The Sudetens, according to the latest count, won an absolute majority in 45 towns out of 1500 municipalities which voted yesterday. Further elections are to be held next Sunday.

For the first time, also, the Henlein faction will be represented on the Prague municipal council, with three members.

The Communists also showed slight gains. The extreme rightist groups, like the anti-semitic Stribony league, were decisively defeated.

The next step, it was believed, will be another attempt by Premier Milan Hodza to persuade the Sudetens to negotiate, and modify some of their demands. Twice over the week-end, however, the Henlein party refused to negotiate "until a situation is created which will make possible a real permanent solution."

The Czech's firm action in manning their frontier, plus British appeals to Germany for restraint, were credited today with carrying Europe safely through one of its most perilous crisis in years.

Foreign Minister Krofta received the outstanding members of the diplomatic corps, and assured them that Czechoslovakia would do all in her power to keep the peace.

Czechs Apologize In Bridge Incident.

BERLIN — (AP) — The official Czechoslovak press bureau reported today that Germany had received a prompt apology for an attempt by Czechoslovak soldiers to blow up a wooden bridge linking the two countries across the River Thaya at Berhartstahl.

Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta delivered the apology yesterday in Praha to German Minister Ernst Eisenlohr even before the latter was aware of the incident, the press bureau said.

The Czechoslovak military command condemned the attempt as "unauthorized." The official German news agency reported yesterday that German gendarmes found fused explosives attached to various sections of the bridge.

Czechoslovak soldiers were said to have fled back across the border when two German frontier officials approached.

A survey of military airports around Berlin this morning revealed no extraordinary activity.

D. N. B., official German news agency, reported another border incident in which a Czechoslovak military plane with two occupants and armed with a machine-gun flew over German territory near Baerenstein in Saxony.

The agency said that after flying low over Baerenstein the plane recrossed the frontier but crashed shortly afterward and bust into flames.

The report did not mention whether the plane was fired on while flying over German territory.

Admits Britain Brought 'Pressure.'

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons today that Czechoslovakia's premier and the leader of her Nazified Germanic minority would meet tonight or tomorrow in an effort to settle the dispute which has brought Europe dangerously near the brink of war.

LONDON—(UP)—The pressure which Great Britain put on Germany to seek a peaceful solution of the Czechoslovak crisis which threatened a war in Europe was admitted by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in the house of commons today.

Arthur Henderson, laborite, asked whether "in view of the special interest displayed by Germany in the problem of the Sudeten minority, the British government urged on the German government the desirability of doing everything in their power to further an agreed settlement?"

"Yes, sir," the prime minister replied.

Chamberlain ignored a question by Oliver Locker-Lampson, "will the prime minister congratulate this gallent little people on their calm courage during the week-end?"

Chamberlain said the Czechoslovak government welcomed the British-French interest in the Sudeten question and "gave assurances of their intention to reach a just and equitable settlement."

FINDS ITALY WAS BETRAYED

Writer Says Broken Promises of Territorial Rewards Led to Fascism.

advantages even at the cost of war.

The treaty, dug out of the musty files of the Palazzo Chigi by this correspondent, takes its name from the fact it was signed in a sleeping-car drawn up on a siding near the little town of San Giovanni De Moriani near the French frontier.

That was on the night of April 20, 1917, while the guns of Europe beat out a deafening clamor on the western front. It was then,

EDITOR'S NOTE: Details of another World war document, demonstrating once again how the allied nations attempted to "carve up" Europe and Asia Minor during the World war, were uncovered today by Frank Gervasi, International News Service bureau chief in Rome.

The document is in the form of a treaty reached in 1917. It was sabotaged at the Versailles conference and to this action Gervasi traces one of the factors which led to Mussolini's rise to power.

This latest revelation of World war intrigue comes from hitherto-suppressed telegrams and minutes obtained from secret Italian archives.

according to Italian records, that the diplomats of France, Britain, Russia and Italy partitioned Asia Minor.

The treaty provided, through clauses interlocking with the pact of London and the secret Anglo-French treaty of May, 1916, that Italy would receive:

1—A definite sphere of influence in the Oriental basin of the Mediterranean.

2—The Dodecanese islands.

3—A slice of Turkey bounded by a line running easward just north of Smyrna as far as Nigde and then south to the Mediterranean, forming a rough quadrangle of 15 000 square miles.

The text of the treaty said:

"Italy promises to maintain Smyrna as a free port for France, her colonies and protectorates and for Great Britain, her colonies and dominions

"Italy is to enjoy similar rights and privileges in the ports of Alexandretta, Caisso and St. Jean D Acre

Mersina (lying south of the appropriated French zone of influence) will remain a free port for Italian commerce.

"Italian products will obtain free transit on the railway crossing to Vilayet and Adana

It is mutually understood the interests of the respective powers will be scrupulously respected."

The opportunity for lively Italian trade eastward afforded by the treaty—a fundamental of Italian expansionist ambition in the Mediterranean — would have given Rome the outlet she needed then and which she thinks she needs even today

Italy might then have become a dominated nation, in the view of political experts, but when Premier Orlando and Foreign Minister Sidney Sonnino went to the peace conference at Versailles to [illegible] allied promises they encountered a new situation that included the Greeks to land at Smyrna the Italian records disclose.

The sources which revealed the treaty and its aftermath to this correspondent furnished what were described as stenographic notes taken down at the May 11, 1919 morning session of the peace conference Present were Georges Clemenceau, David Lloyd George, President Wilson, Sonnino, Orlando and Lord Hankey.

CHAPTER XII

"Someone told me they saw you leaving the office before quitting time and carrying a bundle. They said they believed you had quit."

"They were almost right," Larry returned with attempted carelessness. "Only I didn't quit. I was fired. It happens sometimes to the best of us, you know."

Wilbur made a soft sound of sympathy with his tongue. His brows contracted over his pale blue eyes.

"I'm sorry to hear that, Larry. Would you mind telling me what was the matter with Mr. Wardlaw? Of course he did it . . . strange man."

"Yes, he did it. I guess it was an accumulation of things. We had had a fuss not long ago and I thought I was going to get it. He told me that I was highly incompetent and that he might have to replace me. Maybe he found somebody. He didn't give any reason . . . just slipped me a notice and a week's pay with it. That was the biggest surprise of all."

Wilbur considered that information during a moment of silence. "What are you going to do?"

"Try to find another job. I've got to keep on working."

"Pretty hard to find anything here in Norwood."

"Are you telling me?"

"Funny how things work out," Wilbur meditated. "I had quite a surprise today, too. We had a bad breakdown on an old machine Friday. Edwards told Mr. Wardlaw that we ought to junk it, that we'd have to send away for parts and they'd cost a lot. But the old gentleman wouldn't listen. In fact, I heard him tell Edwards he'd better get it running, or he'd find somebody that could. I thought maybe I knew a way and told Edwards. He said to go ahead Saturday morning, but that it wouldn't work. I did. And out comes Mr. Wardlaw to watch me."

"What happened?" Larry attempted a show of interest.

"Well, I was scared and kind of sore. I had intended to drop around and ask you if you didn't want to drive to Indian Spring and stay over for the band concert."

* * *

Saturday afternoon. That was when she was out on the lake with Mr. Odell, Larry mused. Happy over the promise of a new job . . . happy over something else she feared to analyze too closely. If she had gone to Indian Spring, the afternoon would have been dull but safe. She would have a job now, most likely.

"What was the surprise?" she inquired dutifully.

"Why, I got the machine running about seven o'clock. Mr. Wardlaw didn't say anything to me, but he told Edwards to put on three dollars to my pay when he sent in his next time sheet. That's quite a lot these days, especially to a fellow who tries to take care of his money."

"That's splendid, Wilbur." Larry's words were sincere. "It was lucky that you were able to get that machine to working. Otherwise, you and I might be holding hands tonight."

Larry could have bitten her tongue for saying that. It might put ideas in Wilbur's head. But all he said was:

"Yes. It was lucky for me." And lapsed into a dangerous silence.

At any other time, Larry would have had little trouble to carry on a conversation. But, tonight, she was too confused and depressed. In vain she tried to think of some thing to say as she sat in a corner of the porch swing. Then, without warning, Wilbur left his chair and helped himself to a seat beside her. The brief August twilight was waning rapidly.

"How is your mother?" she queried desperately. If only her mother or Muriel would come out.

"Mother's pretty good." Another long silence.

"You know, Larry," Wilbur broke out with an abruptness that startled her, "I did a lot of thinking tonight . . . after I heard. I was worried about you."

"That was nice of you."

"It made me want to help you . . . you know."

"Help me? I don't understand."

"Well, I figured you'd miss your salary pretty much. I know you will, because you've told me you had to work."

"And I have to keep on. But . . ."

"That's what I thought," Wilbur interrupted steadily. "That, may be, I could help you.

For the first time in many hours, Larry was tempted to laugh.

"Why, Wilbur Grant! I hope you're not proposing that . . ."

"Yes, I am. I guess I'm not doing it very well, though. You see, Larry, I've always been very fond of you. I mean I am fond of you. It seemed to me that if we were to get married . . ."

"Oh," Larry said faintly.

"I'm not suggesting it because you've lost your job," Wilbur insisted earnestly. "I was going to ask you, anyhow. But now . . . well, I thought I'd see what you'd say. I'm making enough to support us. I have only my mother, you know, and she says she'd be glad to have you live with us. It would make it easier for her, what with me being away all day and . . ."

"Wilbur! Please!

Wilbur Grant wanted her to marry him. That's what he had just finished saying. But there wasn't the slightest reality about it. Like everything else tonight. Her only clear reaction was a rush of pity, pity for Wilbur. He was so terribly in earnest; she could feel it.

"That is very sweet of you, Wilbur," she told him, when she was sure of her voice. "I know that you're sincere. And I'm going to be honest. I don't love you enough to marry you, and I wouldn't unless I did. I'm sorry."

"So am I. Do you suppose you might feel differently about it . . . after you thought it over, maybe?"

"I'm afraid not, Wilbur. I guess every girl thinks about being married sometime. But really, I never have very much. I'm young yet. I'd like to go places and do things before I settle down, if I ever do. Maybe it's a good thing . . . what happened today. I might have gone on and on doing a few things in the office until I was as old as Tillie Harrison."

That wasn't true, exactly, but it sounded right.

"Now, that I'm out of a job, I'll have to do something. If I can't find anything here at home . . ." Larry shrugged her shoulders.

"Well, I thought it wouldn't hurt to ask how you felt about it," he sighed. "I would have asked you sometime, for you're the only girl I've ever seemed to care for. But it's all right. Maybe you'll change your mind some day . . ."

"And I appreciate it very deeply," Larry assured him. "You're one of the best friends I have and I hope you always will be."

"Oh, sure. I'll always like you a lot."

Wilbur lapsed into a moody silence, one that lasted so long that Mrs. Layne came out on the porch to ask:

"Has Wilbur gone, Larry? Oh . . . I didn't see you, Wilbur! You were so quiet that I thought nobody was here."

"I was going to go," he volunteered. But made no move.

"Come on, Mums, and sit down," Larry urged. "It's just getting nice out here." Something in her girl's tone prompted the mother to acquiesce.

Almost an hour later, Wilbur did take his leave.

"You'll be able to sleep tonight, won't you Larry? I'd try pretty soon now, if I were you."

"Oh, I guess so, Mums."

"Wilbur's a nice boy, isn't he? He's so good to his mother. If a man's good to his mother, you can count on him I always say."

"Yes, he is," agreed a listless voice in the gloom. Larry wondered what her mother would say if she knew that Wilbur had proposed this evening. That last remark sounded as if she had the possibility in mind. Maybe she would be in favor of it. Mrs. Layne believed in early marriages for girls. She was a bride at 15 and never had regretted it, had grieved secretly over her Muriel's blasted hopes.

Poor old Wilbur had been so in earnest, too . . . even if he had been funny about it all. But the whole thing was so impossible. And sad, too. It wasn't nice to hurt people, or to be hurt. Queer that life had to be like that all at once.

"Larry!" Her mother's cautious voice broke her reverie. "Isn't that car stopping out front? It is! I'm going to slip in . . . someone to see you, I'm sure. Don't stay up late, dear."

That strange little pounding disturbed Larry's heart again as she saw a tall, dim form come slowly up the walk, mount the steps and pause uncertainly in the faint light that shone out from the open front door.

The girl in the swing stirred and the creak of a chain betrayed her presence. The newcomer turned quickly.

"Good evening," said a man's quiet voice. "I would like to speak to Miss Layne, if I may. Miss Hilary Layne."

"Good evening, Mr. Odell "Oh, it's you . . . Larry."

SHELBY WOMAN SUES AUTOIST

Asks $10,000 Damages As Result of Injuries Last December.

A suit for $10,000 damages had been filed in common pleas court today by Nannie B. Thomas of Shelby who asks that amount from Roger Dick, jr., of Shelby for injuries she suffered when struck by his automobile.

Asserting that Dick was operating his car at an excessive speed in the city, the plaintiff says in her petition that she was knocked down by the automobile as she attempted to cross a street last Dec. 4 in Shelby.

She was confined to a hospital for 38 days, she said, as the result of injuries to her left leg and ankle and back.

Once in a while comes a "natural" like this!

REMEMBER YOUR AUTOMOBILE history? How once every ten years or so some manufacturer came up with a "natural"—some feature that others rushed to adopt because the public just wouldn't be without it? Well, that's the story of Safety Shift*—as next year's cars will prove! So why penalize yourself on future resale value—why deprive yourself of months of driving thrills right now? Why not get them today in that Pontiac—that big, gorgeous, eye-stopping beauty which gives you everything else you want at a price you'll be glad to pay? Make no mistake. Safety Shift is a "natural." It makes magic of shifting gears. It clears the front floor. It adds immeasurably to safety. It calls for no new driving habits. And it's entirely mechanical! Remember how you had to experience four-wheel brakes and balloon tires and Knee-Action to realize how much they stepped up motoring enjoyment? The same holds good for Safety Shift. Why not come in today?

"As a booster, I am selling lots of Fords—but I collect no commissions!"

Quinn Serves Central Ohio As Landscaper

D. D Quinn, Galion landscape contractor who is completing his fifteenth year in this work, has done extensive landscaping in Mansfield, especially in the Woodland section.

During the busy planting season in the spring and fall, Mr. Quinn has from 25 to 35 men in his employ, enabling him at all times to meet the demands of his clients in northern central Ohio which includes Galion, Bucyrus, Crestline, Shelby, Ashland and Mt. Gilead.

Landscaping contracting is a diversified field and takes years of experience in a wide range of work. Together with planting and transplanting of everything from small perennials to large evergreens, shrubs and trees, landscape men are called upon to build pools and rock gardens, stone walls, terraces, walks, grade and plant new lawns, rebuild old lawns, sod lawns, maintain both small gardens and large estates, which includes tending to all pruning, spraying, cultivating and edging of beds, mowing and trimming lawns, and planting and caring for all flowers.

Mr. Quinn designs plans for foundation plantings and gardens without charge when he furnishes the plant material for these projects.

When winter weather halts his activities in this section, he continues his work in Florida, thus keeping him in contact with his profession throughout the year.

Last winter Mr. Quinn designed and planted one of the largest estates in St. Petersburg, Fla., working his entire crew on this job three months

Through his many contacts in the landscape field in the south, he was offered the position of landscape engineer of the city of New Orleans three years ago but turned down the offer so he could confine his activities to home grounds and estates, rather than city parks.

"We are in a position to give expert service in landscape work and guarantee our plants to grow," Mr. Quinn says. "We are established in this vicinity and are available at all times"

LUTZ LUMBER, ONE OF LARGEST IN AREA, FOUNDED 30 YEARS AGO

RALPH C. LUTZ

Starting with a small stock of lumber more than 30 years ago, the Lutz Lumber company of Lexington is now one of the largest lumber and building accessory dealers in this section of the state.

Over 35,000 square feet of storage space, all under roof, houses this stock.

Shortly after the turn of the century, William Lutz founded this concern which is now known as the Lutz Lumber company. At the present time Ralph C. Lutz and Floyd Lutz operate the business. Both have been connected with the firm for the past 17 years and are widely known in north central Ohio in the lumber and building industry.

The Lutz company has a complete stock of lumber, roofing, insulation material, paint, doors, windows, interior trim and many other items that are usually found in a retail lumber yard.

Modern mill facilities are available at the yard with practically all new equipment.

As the result of its growth in recent years, the company, in addition to the original buildings and land, now occupies the building formerly used by the Smith Gas Engineering company.

Quality material at a modest price is stressed by the concern which has been one of Lexington's leading business houses since it was founded.

Gathering Junk Keeps Cartmen Off Relief Rolls

CHICAGO — (AP) — Chicago's push-cart men, lean and in tatters, don't accept relief as long as their junk collecting business nets them from 35 to 60 cents a day.

The army of "pushcart" men has grown to such proportions as to attract attention.

Day and night more than 5,000 of these men struggle through streets and alleys, piling their carts high with junk, mostly boxes and old paper.

The carts are loaned from central junk yards. Paper brings the best prices—15 cents per 200 pounds for ordinary paper and 15 for 100 pounds of the corrugated stuff.

A good hauler can make from 35 to 60 cents a day. One said there are lots of men with trades gathering up paper these days. They make barely enough to keep body and soul together but—most important of all—it keeps them off relief.

Styles in housekeeping change almost as quickly as styles in hats. When you hear someone saying, "I never vacuum more than once a week," recall that experiments show that with the improved carpet construction now being used in American-loomed, wool pile carpets and rugs, daily vacuuming is not only permissible, but even advisable for frequently traveled floor coverings.

LONG AND SHORT MOTOR TOURS FOR HOLIDAY LISTED

You Can Spend Memorial Day Holiday On Trips That Take You Through Most Scenic And Historic Spots In Ohio An Other States; Tours Outlined.

With Memorial day falling on Monday this year, there will be a two-day "vacation" for everyone, and for those who don't work on Saturday, it will be a three-day event.

A number of Mansfielders will take advantage of the time to go on short motor trips, leaving here at the end of their work week and returning Monday night.

There are a number of interesting and scenic trips within a distance to be covered in either two or three days. One of these is an "Explore Ohio" jaunt, easily done in two days, as mapped out by the Richland County Auto club.

It takes in a wide circle which reaches many points of interest, notably the great natural wonders in Pike and Hocking county—Old Man's cave, the Rock house, Ash cave—and the Ohio Caverns. The distance is less than 500 miles for the entire trip.

An even shorter trip is to Henry Ford's Greenfield Village at Dearborn, Mich., which houses the most complete collection of Americana in the country.

And for three day trips there are the Great Smokies and the Skyline drive of Virginia, each averaging about a thousand miles.

A particular attraction on these trips is the fact that mountain laurel is in bloom in many mountainous regions, in the Virginias, Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

There are a number of places, too, within driving distance, where wild flowers of all kinds are at the height of their blooming—azaleas, honeysuckle and redbud. While the date is early for rhododendron, there is a possibility that it may be in bloom in the southern mountains because of the warm weather earlier in the spring. The annual rhododendron festival at Asheville, N. C., is scheduled for the second week in June.

Suggestions on routes and points of interest on these trips are given here. The Auto club will give Ohio maps to any one making the trip, while members of the club may have maps on the out of state trips.

"Explore Ohio."

The Ohio trip, especially, is merely a basic suggestion which may be altered to take in other points and skip some of those given here. By taking 30-S to Marion and Kenton you strike U. S. 68, which leads south through or near many points of interest. Follow 68 through Bellefontaine to Urbana.

A little way off 68, on state route 50 is the entrance to the Ohio Caverns, said by many experts to be more beautiful than the miracle caverns of Virginia.

Returning to 68, continue through Springfield. If you've never seen the little town of Yellow Springs, with its quaint little college of Antioch, it will make an interesting stop on the way from Springfield to Xenia and Wilmington. At Wilmington take state route 73 to Hillsboro and Portsmouth. About halfway between the two towns is Serpent mound, one of the most interesting of the famous Indian mounds in Ohio.

Before reaching Portsmouth, and near route 73 are Shawnee state forest, Roosevelt game preserve and Tremper mound. Portsmouth, an Ohio river city, is the southern most point of the trip. From there you start northward on state route 139 to Jackson, and at that place take route 75 north to McArthur. At the junction with 56, you turn west again for the most scenic spot in Ohio.

There is Ash cave and Cedar Falls, Old Man's cave, Conkle's Hollow, the Rock House, with its mysterious stone pillars, and Cantwell cliffs At Ash cave there are log cabins that may be rented for the night, and a restaurant and billing station. It will take more than a half day to cover this territory and reach the points of interest.

From Cantwell cliffs follow 180 to the junction with 33 just outside of Lancaster. Then to Zanesville, over to Cambridge, and toward New Philadelphia, stopping en route to see the replica of the first white man's settlement in Ohio—long before Marietta was founded —at Gnadenhutten and at Schoenbrunn. From New Philadelphia to Millersburg and back to Mansfield.

The gateway to the Great Smokies is at Knoxville, Tenn., which in itself offers attractions, notably the great Norris dam, and battlefields of the Civil war. The mountains of Virginia and Tennessee, covered with laurel and rhododendron are another lude to the tourist. There are a number of routes that may be taken to Knoxville and the 100 miles ride throught the Great Smoky mountains, but that recommended by the Auto club for good roads and scenic points is from here to London, O., Washington C. H., Maysville, Ky., (a picturesque river town) Winchester and Richmond, Ky., and U. S. 25 into Knoxville.

The drive through the most beautiful and impressive of the Eastern mountains starts at Knoxville and comes back there, by way of Sevierville, Gatlinburg, Townsend, Kinzel Springs and back to the starting point.

If only three days is taken for the trip the tourist will have to head straight for home, going toward Bristol, Va., Wytheville and up to Bluefield, Princeton, Charleston, Parkersburg, Marietta, McConnellsburg, New Lexington and Mansfield.

But if there are four days of vacation, then the motorist can, to advantage, go to Roanoke (branching east at Wytheville) Lynchburg and up to Charlottesville, in the heart of historical Virginia. Here is the home of Jefferson, James Monroe and the University of Virginia. And then continue north through the Shenandoah Valley, and home by way of Washington. Pa., and Wheeling, W. Va. This makes about 1,200 miles.

Skyline Drive.

The Skyline drive from Mansfield and return is about 967 miles, and covers some of the territory in the Great Smoky trip, although it doesn't go so far South. The suggested route is from Mansfield to Marietta, then to Parkersburg, W. Va., Winchester, Va , state route 3 to Front Royal, then over Skyline Drive to Swift Run. U. S. 33 to Lexington, Va. Fourteen miles south of here is the Great Natural Bridge. At Lexington is the old American school, Washington and Lee university, and in the old chapel is the tomb and marble figure of Gen. Robert E. Lee. The motorist can proceed home through Charleston and back to Parkersburg and Marietta.

Brookville, Pa.

This makes a trip of about 500 miles and sovers some of the mountainous country of Western Pennsylvania. The drive between Brookville and Punxsutawney is particularly lovely when the laurels are in bloom, waves of the pinkish white blossoms running back into the canyons. Any of the citizens of Brooksville can direct the motorist to the canyon where the laurel festival is held and where the laurels are the thickest. The foot trails are worth following once you get to the canyon. The trip can be made through Youngstown, Sharon, Pa., and Mercer to Franklin and Brookville, and home by way of Punxsutawney, Indiana, New Alexandria and Pittsburgh.

Greenfield Village.

Henry Ford's restored village and museum of Americana is at Greenfield, near Dearborn, and the motorist may go one way and come home another by taking state route 13 to Sandusky, across Bay Bridge to Toledo, and U. S. 24 to Dearborn, and returning through Ypsilanti, Coldwater, Mich., on U. S. 27 to Ft. Wayne; U. S. 30 to Mansfield.

FAILS AGAIN TO SELL OLD PLANT SITE FOR TAXES

County Gets No Offers Second Time in Attempt to Dispose of Browning Property.

The county failed Saturday in a second attempt to dispose of the old Browning Engineering company property on Longview avenue to collect $11,368 in delinquent taxes.

Offered at sheriff's sale, the old plant site attracted no bids although the appraisal had been reduced from $15,000 to $9,000 after the first attempt at sale failed several weeks ago. Two other Mansfield lots however, were sold Saturday by Deputy Sheriff F. E. Robinson.

Atty. Marshall C. Moore, assistant prosecutor in charge of delinquent tax suits, said the Browning tracts would be offered for sale again, but he declined to say whether the valuation would be reduced.

Treasurer Gets Judgment.

The property is involved in a foreclosure judgment obtained by County Treasurer John E. Kolb against S. H. Squire, state superintendent of banks, who is in charge of liquidation of the Union Trust company, Cleveland.

The land had changed hands several times in recent years, with the Cleveland bank finally taking it on a foreclosure judgment.

A lot at Harter and Raleigh avenues, offered for $839 in delinquent taxes, was purchased by John J. Thoms, 118 Wolfe avenue, for $305. It was appraised at $350, and sold on a judgment against Mrs. Marie A. Lomax.

Another lot on Harter avenue was bid in by Carl Willis for $455, or $205 more than appraisal figure. It was sold by the sheriff on a $237 judgment obtained against Fred Lewis by Inez Taylor.

If you expect to pay above $1000 for your next car—READ THIS!

SOMETIME WITHIN the next twelve months, 300,000 people are going to buy cars in or above the LaSalle price group—and still not get LaSalles!

Many of these people, we suspect, will do this simply because of a misconception as to LaSalle's price. They believe that because LaSalle is so high in quality, it is probably also high in price.

This is decidedly not true! Actually more than half of all motor car manufacturers have models selling at or above the price of a new LaSalle V-8!

Remember this when you buy your next car. For if you intend to spend above a thousand dollars, you're entitled to a LaSalle, and you ought to get a LaSalle!

It's only common sense to do this—because a Cadillac-built LaSalle will give you far more performance, far more comfort, and far more safety—as well as far more prestige and general satisfaction.

Investigate before you invest. Compare prices—compare cars. Don't envy the man who owns a LaSalle. Get one yourself!

- All Plymouth models have the same big, 82-horsepower "L-head" engine for full power with economy.

YOU'LL BE SURPRISED how much the Plymouth "Roadking" differs from other lowest-priced cars... though they cost about the same.

It's bigger... better engineered! Plymouth has 4-ring pistons, a chain-driven camshaft, Hypoid rear axle—differences that mean lower upkeep, longer life.

Try the exciting experience of driving the Plymouth "Roadking." Big, airplane-type shock-absorbers and "live" rubber body mountings smooth out bumps and vibration.

This is National Poetry week—which revives the idea that there should be a wastebasket in every home.

Dauber is to be complimented on confining himself to winning horse races—instead of trying to paint houses.

It is interesting to note that political leaders of widely varying views are all "highly pleased" with the outcome of the Pennsylvania primaries.

Some Things Not In School Books.

THE time is coming along for another crop of graduates to be turned out by high schools and colleges.

These young people will be graduated into a period of the deepest depression that has existed for a number of years and they will hear many pessimistic expressions—some of which may even go to the extent of contending that America is a failure.

Now is the time that these young people should start learning some things from observation—rather than depending too much on things that can be found in books.

They should learn, for instance, that FAILURE IS INDIVIDUAL AND NOT NATIONAL—just as success depends on the individual and cannot be attained by ukase of government.

They should learn, also, that there are no substitutes for honesty, industry, sobriety, economy and thrift in making the start toward later self-attained financial security.

They should know that at all times a vast majority of the people of the United States have been self-sustaining, even to the point of accumulating beyond immediate needs, and have thus been enabled to provide for the future of themselves and their dependents.

They should know that present difficulties are the logical outcome of faulty thinking by a relatively small group of political opportunists, rather than indicating any fundamental weakness in principles of government under which the United States, and the welfare of its people, have shown greater advancement than any other nation in the world.

They should know that the disturbing elements in any organization are readily identifiable as such, and that there are certain definite requirements of ability, adaptability and dependability essential to holding a job after it has been secured.

Suggestion to members of graduating classes—Be polite to the boy who does without a car until he can afford to buy one—you may be asking him for a job some day.

Connecticut Points Way.

CONNECTICUT has just held her first state-wide highway safety conference, under the sponsorship of the Connecticut highway safety commission. A pioneer in the field of highway safety, her efforts have been rewarded with a steady decline in traffic fatalities within the state during recent years.

During the conference, Burton W. Marsh, director of safety of the American Automobile association, declared: "If the record of Connecticut could have been extended to the rest of the United States, 59,000 lives would have been saved since 1928."

Especially stressed at the conference was the vital necessity of educating drivers, young and old, to the fact that "It's smart to drive safely."

Education is strictly a local problem, and as President Hoffman of the Studebaker corporation said: "It can only be solved successfully by creating the right mental attitude toward safe driving. There must be a social taboo on the 'fix.' There must be a social taboo on drinking and driving. There should be a social taboo on young girls going out driving with young men who have had even one drink." In short, drivers must learn that, instead of being smart and sophisticated when they mix drinking and driving, they are enemies of society—potential murderers!

Mothers Have Big Job.

THE EASE with which modern women do their housework, says an expert in child guidance, is breaking down modern homes. "Mothers these days get their work done so quickly that they either sit twiddling their thumbs or go out somewhere."

Someone might raise a question about thumb-twiddling. Is there anyone in the audience who has ever seen a mother twiddle her thumbs? She might sit and rock, which is perhaps a form of twiddling. Or play solitaire, which is another variation. But from general indications, such as are visible on the street, in the movie houses, at friendly bridge tables, at the bargain sales, and so on, Mother goes out.

This is bound to happen when housework is so simplified and eased by modern household equipment, prepared foods and ready-made clothing. Housewifery becomes a part-time job. So women either idle, or seek jobs outside of the home to fill up their time.

This latter remedy is often unwise, suggests the expert. There is still a chance for a career in the home—as big a chance as ever. It is raising children, making a real job of it and producing a first-class product.

"Women have to decide which they want," he says. "They need to be told that it often takes more brains and training to be a good mother than to take somebody's dictation, to sell goods, to write advertising, to be a doctor or lawyer."

Well-Founded Objection.

MRS. PAUL WILSON, who, under her maiden name of Frances Perkins, is secretary of labor in the Roosevelt cabinet, has expressed objection to designation as "Madame Perkins."

It is inaccurate, of course, to refer to Mrs. Wilson as "Madame Perkins," the "madame" being ordinarily regarded as a French title accorded all married women, while the "Perkins" correlates with Mrs. Wilson's previous unmarried state, in which only "Miss" would be philologically applicable.

No such confusion arises, however, in the matter of other cabinet members, who are commonly referred to by their last names, without taking the trouble to prefix any title of respect or dignification. Present-day sex equality being what it is, why bother about the "Madame" or "Miss"—why not just "Perkins?"

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

THERE is a feeling among some large-scale industrialists now that President Roosevelt will put through a fairly good part of his "reform" program—and especially a wages and hours bill—in the next session of congress. That may be true even if the Democrats suffer heavy losses in this year's election. The New Deal high command is not so much interested in those losses as in replacing certain violent anti-New Dealers in the south with pro-New Dealers.

If the pro-New Dealers win, the wages and hours bill will be a certainty. Even Republicans in the north will not oppose a bill, in the final showdown.

Northern industrialists are concerned with the wage differentials that "favor" the south. (The south may not be favored so much by lower wages, if buying power is taken into account.)

Northern industrialists have been studying a table recently compiled which shows that in the south 48 per cent of the unskilled workers start work under 40 cents an hour; in the north, 3½ per cent.

CREDIT CONTROL.

President Roosevelt now is looking toward his place in history. He no longer worries over election possibilities. He probably believes that if he does not obtain now what he thinks are essential reforms, someone will come along later and obtain them. History then would look upon Mr. Roosevelt as a "failure".

Although government spending and anti-monopoly campaigns loom large now, there may be larger things in store within the next two years. For example, if Washington cannot "force" capital into action (if such a thing be possible), the government may go a long distance in controlling credit and money.

This control of credit and money, in fact, is going a long way in the majority of countries. Political complexion does not seem to have much to do with it. For example, a moderately conservative government in France differs little from a radical government in its fiscal management and control.

OTHER MEASURES.

Nor is government departmental reorganization dead. In fact, it cannot be—the administrative departments have become too cumbersome. Furthermore, nobody will be able to chop out the dead wood unless somebody has supreme authority. Congress never will cut off jobs.

If President Roosevelt would put forth his plan piecemeal, or permit congress to originate it, reorganization would go through. Congress simply does not like the Roosevelt method of springing "must" measures abruptly, and putting through changes, when he has the power, impulsively.

Then, too, one must not consider the supreme court "reform" plan dead. Labor is against the court's nullification of measures that congress has passed—at least, with a mere majority. And the most recent decision against the New Deal also was against the farmers. Thus, there may be some reaction from organized farmers the next time, as well as from labor.

BANISH THE PLAGUE BREEDERS

Foresee Waning of Lewis Menace

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — There has been a tremendous lot of marching up the hill and down again since last month, when the opinion was ventured that "Follow the Leader" was no longer a political necessity for senators and representatives in voting on measures affecting business.

But the net result of all the marching is pretty nearly zero. Pennsylvania, where the New Deal lost not only its shirt, but its reputation for infallible political prediction, just about offsets Florida, where a strongly pro-New Deal senator triumphed in his primary over a New Deal critic seeking his toga.

More important is what happened to John L. Lewis. In fact the CIO chieftain came pretty close to joining FDR as an ex-dictator. Both are admittedly still powerful and resourceful, but both can be defied, on occasion, without certain political extermination being the penalty.

A good many cards will be played, in various states, before the picture is complete, and it would be dangerous now to predict that New Deal ideals will not be slavishly followed by a chastened congress after the primaries and the November election have recorded their mandates. BUT—present conviction in Washington is that the results will be mixed, with administration victories and defeats so counterbalancing that the net result will be, next session, that individual senators and representatives who WANT to be independent will be.

REGARDLESS of what may happen to the Roosevelt prestige, however, it would seem next to impossible for John L. Lewis again to inspire the political fear in congressional hearts which has dwelt there for the last few years. By the same token William Green, and the American Federation of Labor, have regained the prestige and poltical power which they enjoyed until Lewis and his CIO moved in on Roosevelt Important now, however, is the fact that the labor outfit which has been dominating the New Deal policies and appointments turns up as a political loser. Since the Pennsylvania primaries congress is paying more attention to William Green's attack on the National Labor Relations board.

More point is given to Green's unwillingness to have administration of the wage hour bill vested in a board to be appointed by Roosevelt, the A. F. of L., leader making no bones in stating his fear that any such board would be as unfair to the A. F. of L., and as favorable to CIO as the Wagner board has been.

SHRINKING of the Lewis political menace in the minds of our national legislators has also resulted in many members of the house and senate paying more attention to the flood of protests from manufacturers and other employers of labor as to the high-handed, arbitrary and discouraging methods of the NLRB.

Now congress is being told very emphatically that the labor policy of the government is also a wet blanket on enterprise, and particularly on any contemplated expansion. In short that it is one of the big contributing causes of unemployment. Up to now it has not been a question of disbelieving this contention. But individual congressmen, with their eyes on the primaries and election this year, were timid about making any move which might bring a strongly organized group out against them in their districts or states.

This timidity might still exist if Green and the A. F. of L., approved of the NLRB. But the congressman must make up his mind either that the labor vote is important to him or that it is not. If he decides that it is important to him then the present situation is that, in the state in which Lewis and the CIO were considered to be the strongest—due to the large number of miners and recently organized steel workers—Green's group showed greater strength.

Timely Editorial

The Principle Is Sound.

Enlightened men of affairs feel as does President Knudsen of General Motors in subscribing to the purposes of the Social Security act. The country from which Mr. Knudsen came to America—and indeed all countries socially advanced in their thinking — have the equivalent of the act in their social schemes.

It remains to assure ourselves that the form selected by us is the one best adapted to our needs, that its maintenance falls as equably as possible on the contributing elements, and within their capacity to contribute without hardship, and especially that the financial management of the scheme is prudent and already looking to the day when disbursements under the act will entail huge annual totals. The principle of social security is one to which all honest thinkers now adhere as necessary: indeed, one which, many are persuaded, was long overdue when it was established in our social structure—Detroit News.

Suspicious About Identical Bids.

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—It is a shame to come all the way to Washington and then order bean soup and apple pie, but it is surprising the number of people who do just that—at the senate restaurant.

First off, the price is low, the two items coming only to 25 cents. But more important—the restaurant is more noted for those two dishes than for any other.

The apple pie is deep and consistently good. The soup has its off days. But the odds are that on any given day the soup will be good. We don't know where to buy better.

And it is well to understand that, taken together, apple pie and bean soup will be about all you can manage, particularly if you plan to stop in the gallery and hear a learned debate on something or other. Because in that case it will take next to a fist fight on the floor to keep you awake.

Sea Food, River View.

MAJOR top flight eating spots can be found either right in town or hidden away in some suburban spot under a spreading elm tree. But anybody not too fastidious about smells can find something to do about food down on the water front. Herzog's hangs right out over the wharf, and diners or lunchers sit on a balcony from which they can look through yacht masts to the Virginia shore a mile across the Potomac.

Back from the wharf a bit are several other restaurants specializing in sea foods and Potomac views. They don't try to polish up much, but the fish dishes are beyond complaint. One of them, Paul's, has a long and interesting history. It has been a hangout for some government group or other on week nights for years without number. A story is told about an earlier day president who used to frequent the place—but that for other times.

Sancho, My Lance!

FOR more than a year, Secretary Ickes has been conducting a Don Quixote battle against steel companies, cement companies and others he accuses of collusive bidding on materials for public works projects. He refuses to think it is coincidence when cement companies offer identical bids right down to the penny for cement for dams and bridges, even though one manufacturer may be right next door to the job and others a thousand miles away. The same about steel companies.

Repeatedly he has turned these identical bids over to the Department of Justice for investigation. If the companies are getting together before submitting bids it is illegal under the various fair trade acts. Fines and prison sentences can be imposed. Nothing much has happened yet in the way of prosecution, although J. Edgar Hoover's G-men are working on some cases. The companies deny any collusion.

Meantime Ickes works his own little trick. When the bids come in all identical as to amounts, he gives the ob to the company farthest from the dam or bridge being built. If they are going to do that, he says, we might just as well give the railroads a little of the money by letting them haul it the longest possible distance.

The comptroller general once tried to interfere by insisting that when identical bids were offered the decision should be made by drawing lots. But Ickes demurred; as an executive officer, he said, he would decide how the contracts should be awarded. And he does.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Setting Her Cap for Him."

Cleopatra's cap was a diadem, set among others, for Anthony and Caesar; but from her time and before to ours, head adornment has been one way in which the so-called weaker sex conquers the allegedly stronger.

They did not always call it "setting her cap for him."

As in so many other instances, the act or the fact long antedated the expression, which is comparatively recent, and which is an allusion to days when the cap completed woman's costume and was thought greatly ot enhance her attractiveness.

The hat may have been plain, of lawn, or very elaborate, of bright-hued silk or lace; but it was most becoming, and, then as now, designed as well as deployed to melt away male resistance.

Young America Says---

No Other Country Is Equal To Ours.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHOOPEE! ZOWIE! AND A MOB OF YIPPEES!

Here at last comes a foreign born settler in these states who DOESN'T believe that he has been "persecuted" . . . "imposed upon" . . . and "double crossed"! And we can certainly use a little such enthusiasm to counteract the blasts which trans-Atlantic visitors have been showering upon our Uncle Sam!

Of course Uncle Sam has fed, educated and nursed millions of aliens through dark years of depression without asking a cent in return or even expecting them to become citizens—

But all that is just a False Front—sez they. Actually he's giving the Poor Darlings the Dirtiest Deal in history!

But now comes Vernon A. MacMillan of Lockport, N. Y., with a stout reply to the contrary. Dial in, Young America! Then grab your pen and give this adopted American the warmest welcome you know how to put on paper.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"I am now twenty-six. I came to the United States with my parents when I was five years old. Since then, I have received a high school education and have been furnished with a moderate living, either through my own efforts or through those of my father. I have been accepted as an American and treated as one.

"I haven't been forced to live in any particular section of the city, nor have I had abuse and persecution heaped upon me.

"I haven't as yet completed my education, but I intend to do so in the United States, and with aid of money that I shall earn in the United States. I don't expect that I shall have an easy time of it. But I do expect, and know that I shall have, an opportunity to better myself.

"THESE ARE SOME OF THE PRIVILEGES I HAVE ENJOYED, OR WILL ENJOY, AND THE ONLY CONDITION INVOLVED IS THAT I SHALL LIVE AN HONEST AND USEFUL LIFE. ANYONE WHO CAN FIND FAULT WITH THAT CONDITION IS EITHER A LAZY PERSON OR A DISHONEST ONE.

"Those letters having to do with 'persecuted aliens,' 'rotten deals' and 'dirty flats' get in my hair. I don't make a practice of shouting my approval of the United States from a soap box, but neither do I like to hear anyone knock the country that has been my home for so long and has treated me with such fairness and consideration.

"If there are some who believe they have been badly treated here, it only seems logical that they should go back to where they will find their ideal living conditions. Where that will be, I haven't the slightest idea. But they must have in mind some place that to them seems to be better; otherwise America would seem to be best.

"As for myself, I wouldn't trade one county of the United States for all the other countries in the world. I intend to continue to live as an American and to die as an American. I hope that I never see the time when the United States finds it necessary to ask any of her people to die for America, but if that time does come, I shall consider that I owe her at least that much, and that in making that request she is offering me an honorable chance to really prove that I am an American."

THERE'S one Young America's glorious defiance of the Sneerers and Snipers. And here's an equally courageous boast and challenge—"I GO TO CHURCH AND I'M NOT ASHAMED TO SAY IT!" from W. Walton Reid, Vienna, Maryland.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"I go to church regularly and like it—AND NEED IT. Many may class me as a sissy because I say this, but I'm not. I dance, smoke, have dates, pitch baseball for the local club. I have hitchhiked from North Carolina to New York, learning much about life as I went, and the greatest fact I have learned is this—

"YOUNG AMERICANS NEED THE CHURCH. AND THE CHURCH NEEDS THEM.

"You can realize how great this need is if you see youngsters still in their teens—girls as well as boys—lolling over bars...dragging themselves to school or work after a wild party.

"IT TAKES MORE THAN A BROMO OR AN ASPIRIN TO REMOVE THE SOUL SICKNESS AND MENTAL POISON WHICH SUCH PARTIES LEAVE.

"I am not a fanatic. I don't believe that everyone who takes an occasional highball is damned. And we need fun as much as we need food. BUT WE ALSO NEED A SPIRITUAL STANDARD AND A PLACE IN THE CHURCH TO KEEP US "ON THE RIGHT SIDE OF THE TRACK!"

W. Walter Reid—age 18,
Vienna Maryland.
($10 prize winner)

Here's one who doesn't think you are a sissy, son, but who instead cheers you for your courage, fineness and sanity. And you'll find that many another Young American agrees with you. How about some of you writing to Walter—giving him a hand?

AND now Stanley Mostowski of Chicago, Ill., sends a well-timed suggestion.

"WE MAY HAVE MADE MUCH MATERIAL PROGRESS IN THE LAST FEW YEARS," says Stanley, "BUT WE HAVE HAD ONE GREAT LOSS—WE HAVE FORGOTTEN THE TRUST AND FRIENDLINESS WHICH WE ONCE FELT FOR EACH OTHER. WE HAVE FORGOTTEN HOW TO BE GOOD NEIGHBORS.

"The old, happy evening gatherings are almost obsolete. Each family sits by its own radio or goes off on individual searches for amusement. If someone drops in the 'genial' host can hardly wait until he departs. Where people were once free and easy, they now sit eyeing each other with distrust or envy, or fill the the evening with boasts and gossip.

"Let us all, with a little word of cheer, a little co-operation, a smile and a little appreciation of the other fellow's efforts, help to thaw out this cold-heartedness."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It is a pity that so little employment for second grade actors and actresses will accrue from the wholesale production of plays during the annual summer theatrical season, now under way. All along the Atlantic seaboard from Ogunquit, Me., to Olemy, Md., playhouses are being renovated, fresh mazdas placed in marquees, and preparations made to welcome the stars and "name" players of the theater who will come for a week, as "guests," to be featured and feted.

But the minor players, the "second" men and bit players of the theater, with rare exceptions, will remain in New York—just hoping and looking ahead to September.

FOR the summer season provides little beyond: (A), a chance for a star to spend a few exhilarating days at a pleasant resort; (B), an opportunity for playwrights to try out new dramas, and (C), a come-on for people who like week-end drives or over-night trips throughout the eastern states.

It works like this: A Hollywood star, anxious for a little "audience reaction," will agree to come east for one-tenth her film salary to star for a week in a new show. All right, you say, but what about the eight or ten other people in the cast? Actors are required for these.

In a measure that is true, but they are not enlisted from the rank and file in Broadway casting offices. They are filled by pretty debutantes who are eager to work for the "experience," or at most a nominal fee. The supporting cast invariably is replete with semi-pros.

One undeniable advantage of the summer "stock" season, as it is called, is the chance for playwrights to place their new dramas under the audience microscope. A summer production enables the author and his advisers to sit back and criticize it from a seat in the audience. The piece then can be edited, even entirely rewritten in time for a premiere on Broadway in the fall. This "laboratory" test has saved some inherently fine plays.

AND so things are happening along the greasepaint trail which leads from Skowhegan to Providence to Westport to Suffern to Olemy and points east, west, and south.

Suffern, New York, is a famous summer theatrical point, for Helen Hayes generally makes a guest appearance there. Erin O'Brien-Moore, beginning at Providence, will make practically a tour of the summer circuit. Katharine Cornell, Kate Hepburn and Ann Harding are others who like an occasional week in a "name" role in the seaboard centers.

It must be admitted that the best playwrights are often represented just as the best in the big time performers are on the marquees. I have seen Eugene O'Neill, Maxwell Anderson, Robert Sherwood, and other leading dramatists represented in summer stock. Which is swell for them, swell for the stars who play those meaty roles, and swell for the audience. But it would be sweller if it helped the ones who aren't quite stars, the guys back on Broadway pounding the pavements and looking for jobs.

WORK LAGS ON NEW PROGRAM FOR OHIO NEEDY

Assembly Leaders Pessimistic Over Attempts to Develop Satisfactory Plan.

(UP Staff Correspondent)

COLUMBUS—House and senate committees resumed their labors today on controversial bills in an attempt to formulate some kind of a relief program within the next few days.

Leaders were frankly pessimistic over attempts thus far to develop a plan that would be assured of general support.

While legislators worked on the direct relief problem, Gov. Martin L. Davey's office indicated he might send to the general assembly a special message outlining in detail reasons for support of his measure to start a $15,000,000 welfare building program. The senate taxation and relief committee has taken no action on it.

A new attack was expected before the house taxation committee on the already half dead Almendinger bill permitting cities to levy the same excise taxes as the state now has sole power to impose.

Objections to it on constitutional grounds and on the argument that it would create a hodge podge of conflicting local taxation with a disastrous effect upon business convinced even its lukewarm supporters in the League of Ohio Municipalities that it cannot pass without a decided reversal of opinion and probably will not get out of committee.

Urges Majority Vote.

Also up for consideration was the Laderman bill to permit passage of special bond issues for local participation in federal works projects by a mere majority vote.

Rural interests have given an indication they would yield on their opposition to this bill.

A better chance was forecast on the Harter measure to extend the utilities excise tax through 1940.

The house will reconvene in working sesison Tuesday and the senate will meet either tomorrow or Wednesday. It was expected, however, that although committee reports may be submitted by the middle of the week, that a showdown on major relief bills may be delayed in the house until the committee investigating needs in large cities has submitted its findings.

The senate taxation and relief committee which has considered only one major relief bill—that providing administrative machinery—expects to put this measure and others to the floor by Wednesday, according to its chairman, Senator Harold D. Nichols, D., Clermont.

7 ESCAPE WHEN PLANE CRASHES

Airliner Crashes Wire Fence, Piles Up On Jersey Highway.

CAMDEN, N. J.—(INS)—Four passengers and a crew of three aboard an Eastern Airlines plane escaped injury today when the airliner overshot a runaway and crashed into a wire fence.

The 18-passenger ship, inbound from Houston, Tex., ripped down approximately 100 feet of the wire fence and careened into the middle of the Marleton pike before stopping.

Officials of the airline here said the passengers were transferred to automobiles and taken to a railroad station in Philadelphia where they boarded a train to complete their northern journey.

GIVEN YEAR TO ABOLISH 1-ROOM RURAL SCHOOLS

Ashland Districts Warned by Superintendent of Plan to Redistrict All Areas.

Ashland-county one-room school districts will be given one year in which to voluntarily broach some sort of centralization program, and if they fail to come through willingly, the Ashland county school board will adopt its own redistricting program, O. H. Maffet, county superintendent of schools said at an open meeting held in the courthouse assembly room here.

The meeting, an annual affair during which local school board members and interested private citizens were invited, attracted close to 100. Grover Traxler, executive secretary to the Ohio Director of Education was the main speaker.

Condemn Buildings.

Both Maffet and Traxler spoke in favor of modern trends in education, and condemned the one-room school house as being unfair to children who must attend them.

Maffet, acting as spokesman for the county board which had met just previous to the open meeting, declared that the county board has no redistricting program for the coming year.

During that period, if schools in the county which are now considered in danger of not being approved do not come forward with a plan of their own, the county board will take definite action.

Maffet declared that what the board wants are local proposals, and he stated that if local schools do not propose something to eliminate their inadequate schools, a remedy will be found.

Maffet also announced that the last all-county eighth-grade commencement will be held in Ashland on June 4. After that date, because of the few number which are graduated, the commencement exercises will be handled by the local schools.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

WE LIVE in a solid, unassuming, paradoxical old gray farmhouse. Its back is toward the front, its front door opens in the rear, and we gaze out of our front windows into the backyard garden. All the five entrances to house and cellar are on the eastern side. This makes it so that our front veranda is right beside our kitchen porch and every caller stops naturally at the kitchen door, and thus goes no farther. The kitchen is the best room of a house, anyway.

My wife is one of those women who likes to make things over. She is happy when transforming some old garment into clothing for the children; she delights in serving a whole supper in one dish, made of leftovers from dinner; she has been in her element for three weeks now, with a red cotton handkerchief tied over her hair and a paint brush in her hand. With the hired man's help, she has not only painted things red, but white, blue, gray, green and black. The result is surprising to say the least. I'm sure the old house has never worn so much make-up before, even in its youth.

Several quaint little secrets have come to light. For instance, the bump in the corner above the baseboard turned out to be a cork in a mouse hole—and was put carefully back. The door to the dark cellar stairs, opened first with some misgivings, revealed rows of beautiful solid walnut boards, ceiling one entire wall.

She removed the horse shoe from above the kitchen door long enough to paint the woodwork, but replaced it, for sentiment. It is a thin, worn shoe from the right front foot of a driving horse . . . no doubt it has brought good luck and will continue to do so.

We like the old house. My wife eyes it speculatively from the road and murmurs, "About three coats of white paint, now, and some brown shutters . . ." but she does not say it with the fresh zeal of three weeks ago. I have hopes that housecleaning is nearly over.

Amateur photographers looking for "something different" to shoot with their cameras, have been invited by officials of the hobby show now being held at the Y. M. C. A., to take pictures at the show.

Photographers will find a variety of subjects, as there are 100 or more hobby collections being exhibited there, with still more yet come.

Included in the show are collections of post cards, shells, boats, airplanes, model ships, glass dolls, slippers and hats, soap carvings, paintings, match labels, pencils, guns, stamps, pioneer scenes, coins, arrow heads, autographs, and many other articles.

The exhibit will continue through Wednesday, and will be open to the public from noon until 9 p. m. each day. Over 200 persons, many from other towns, visited the exhibit yesterday.

The show is under joint sponsorship of the Y. M. C. A. and the Junior Association of Commerce.

WESTINGHOUSE JOINS IN MOVE TO PRIME PUMP

Announces $12,000,000 Plant Improvement Program; Ohio to Get $600,000.

Swinging in line with President Roosevelt's "pump priming" campaign, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company today announced that it will spend $12,000,000 on a building and expansion program in the company's 22 district offices.

Of that amount $600,000 will be spent in Ohio. The company has plants in Mansfield, Lima and Cleveland.

The sum, approximately the same amount as that appropriated for similar projects in 1937, is being spent because of the faith that a revival of business is coming, "plus our natural desire to do our part in effecting a return of prosperity and employment," A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board said in making the announcement.

Difference Explained.

He pointed out that, although the amounts being spent this year and last were virtually identical, that there was an importance difference.

"The 1937 outlay was made to keep up with the mounting demands on the company for increased production," he said, "whereas this year's appropriations are made principally on faith that business conditions will improve, and on the company's desire to be ready for increased production when it comes."

Local officials of the company said that no definite expansion program was contemplated here, but that necessary improvements and alterations would be made as needed.

The million-dollar office and warehouse building here was constructed under a previous plan, similar to the one announced by Robertson.

ACTION DUE ON GAS IN SHELBY

Council to Meet Tomorrow in Adjourned Session; Rate Bill to Be Presented.

SHELBY—After discussing the gas rate question at two meetings behind closed doors, Shelby's council is expected to take its first formal action on a new contract with the Ohio Fuel Gas company tomorrow night, Mayor D. B. Young announced today.

Council will meet at 7 p. m. in an adjourned session. Although no figures could be obtained today, it was learned that an ordinance would be submitted for action. Council has discussed rate structures in its two closed sessions.

With Councilman Charles Swanger as the leader, there will be at least a three-man bloc in council which will oppose any increase in present rates, and will actively seek a lower rate. This bloc, it was learned, will oppose any setup which includes a "sandbag" and will also fight for a three-year contract instead of a longer one.

Last month, William C. Mead, division manager for the Ohio Fuel, submitted a five-year proposal, which called for a 69½ cent rate, on the basis of 5,000-foot consumption, for three years and a 74-cent rate for the final two years, an average of 71 cents. Under the present contract, Shelby is now paying 71 cents, the rate in effect the fifth year of a five-year contract, which expired last month.

COURT UPHOLDS LABOR BOARD IN STRIKE RULING

Denies Remington-Rand Plea Fighting Reinstatement of 4,000 Employes.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The supreme court today denied the petition of Remington Rand Inc., typewriter manufacturers for review of a national labor relations board order holding the company guilty of unfair labor practices and requiring reinstatement of 4,000 employes.

The case, which grew out of a series of strikes in various plants of the country, was one of the most bitterly fought before the labor board.

Most Sweeping Order.

The order of reinstatement also was the most sweeping ever issued by the labor board.

Remington Rand, in its petition, said that to comply with the reinstatement order it would be necessary to discharge 4,000 workers employed since May 26, 1936.

The company sought to raise the issue of the right of the board to order reinstatement of strikers. It also charged the union with misconduct. The labor board, holding that the corporation sought to intimidate workers and deny them right of collective bargaining maintained that its reinstatement order was just.

The long strikes affected plants at Syracuse, N. Y., Ilion, N. Y., Middletown, Conn., North Tonowanda, N. Y., Marietta and Norwood, Ohio.

YOUTH OF ALL AGES AGREES—
"Chrysler IS THE WORLD'S GRANDEST CAR TO DRIVE!"

● SAYS MR. WILLIAM A. STEWART, 85 YEARS YOUNG, OF EAGLE ROCK, CALIF.: "Everything about the Chrysler Royal is high-class. For comfort and ease of driving, it surpasses anything I ever drove, and I've driven for 20 years. You can't hear the motor, yet it has wonderful power and pickup. It's big and roomy, too, with plenty of room for six, and it rides as steadily and smoothly as much heavier cars. The safety features are outstanding; I wouldn't be without hydraulic brakes, all-steel body and safety instrument panel."
● SAYS MRS. BERNARD ZINN, SMART YOUNG MATRON OF HUNTINGTON WOODS, MICH.: "I'm an artist and found Chrysler Royal colors and interiors so lovely that I had a hard time choosing. It's a style leader and the easiest car to drive I ever owned. A smooth engine with marvelous pickup and so quiet I sometimes don't know it is on. Body is big and roomy and appointments are fine. The brakes and other safety features give me a feeling of confidence. A very economical car, in spite of its bigness."
● SAYS MR. WILLIAM A. BOWRON, YOUNG MAN OF THE SOUTH, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.: "I like to carry a lot of people and my Chrysler Royal carries them all comfortably. It's mighty easy to drive and steer. You can turn it with your little finger. A peppy engine, remarkably smooth and does its work silently, even on the hills. I think it's one of the prettiest cars I ever saw. I particularly like the all-steel body and the smooth hydraulic brakes. They make you feel safe."

Short-Boil Recipes Given For Your Favorite Strawberry Jam

Gather ye strawberries while ye may from gardens, fruit stalls, market places—and turn them into jelly! These short-boil recipes give you a spread that tastes exactly like sun-ripened fruit . . . follow directions exactly for a perfect product every time:

Ripe Strawberry Jelly

4 cups (2 lbs.) strawberry juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
8 cups (3½ lbs.) sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin.

To prepare juice, grind or crush thoroughly about 3 quarts fully ripe berries. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Squeeze and strain juice from 1 medium lemon.

Measure sugar and fruit juices into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add boiled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Parraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 12 glasses (6 fluid ounces each.)

Ripe Strawberry Jam.

4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit
6½ cups (2¾ lbs.) sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin.

To prepare fruit, grind about 2 quarts fully ripe berries, or crush completely one layer at a time so that each berry is reduced to a pulp.

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5 to 6-quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary; place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, ¼ teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pou quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each.)

Spiced Vinegar

Spiced vinegar lends a piquant flavor to meat and fish sauces or salad dressings. To make it mix three cups of vinegar, one teaspoon of salt, half a teaspoon each of mustard, cinnamon, cloves, celery seed, paprika, mace and crushed bay leaf, four parsley sprigs and two tablespoons of granulated sugar. Boil together for two minutes. Strain and store in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

To Glaze Ham

An unusual and tasty glaze for ham may be made by mixing one cup of dark brown sugar, a third-of-a-cup of orange marmalade, three tablespoons of vinegar and one teaspoon of powdered cloves. Spread the mixture over the cooked meat, then bake it for 15 minutes in a moderate oven Serve it warm or cold

Summer Meat

Cover veal chops with grapefruit sections and then broil them 15 minutes. Baste several times with the drippings that cooks out of the meat.

Spiced Loaf Something Different

When you are again asked to make a contribution to the church or club supper, cover yourself with glory by donating a spiced raisin nut loaf:

Spiced Raisin Nut Loaf.

3 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder.
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed.
½ cup finely broken walnut meats
1 cup finely cut raisins
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk
4 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and spices, and sift again. Add sugar and mix well; then add walnut meats and raisins. Combine egg, milk, and shortening; add to flour mixture and blend. Bake in greased loaf pan. 8x4x3 inches, in moderate oven (350° F.) 1 hour, or until done.

The perfect finish to a substantial dinner or supper is a light fruit dessert. But, for all its simplicity, it need not lack a touch of luxury if you choose your fruit desserts from among the many which include coconut.

Protect your waffle iron and other seldom-used kitchen utensils by keeping them in a flour or sugar sack fastened with a rubber band or string.

If your kitchen work table is too low put casters on each leg.

There's been a lot of talk about reducing your family's living expenses by lowering the cost of electrical service. Now no one is more anxious to reduce the cost of electricity than I am—and I think that is proved by the fact that while general living costs have gone up to 40 per cent in the past 25 years, the cost of electric service has gone down 40 per cent in the same length of time. But please remember, that even if you didn t have to pay a cent for your electric service, your total living expenses would drop less than two per cent. Government figures show that of every dollar spent for living, the average family spends less than two cents for electric light and power service. The big branches on the family budget tree are 35 cents for food, 21 cents for shelter, 11 cents for clothing, 6 cents for recreation, 5 cents for transportation. So even if I sawed the entire electric light and power twig off your family budget tree, it wouldn't help much toward trimming the tree. So use it freely . . . because ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP.
